Dootson Freed

Jury Acquits Colquitz Aide

Peter Howard Dootson was found not guilty by an all-male jury in Assize Court late last night after a marathon session that started at 1 p.m. He was discharged from custody.

Dootson, a psychiatric aide at Colquitz Mental Home, had been charged with attempted murder and setting fire to fellow worker Robert Robinson following an incident early Oct. 19, 1962, in the staff quarters of the home.

Robinson was found by fellow workers at 1:40 a.m. that day lying on the floor on his room, his mattress on fire, with several injuries and third degree burns.

The not guilty verdict came after Mr. Justice S. J. Atkins had instructed the jury for three hours on every conceivable variation of the legal situation. (See earlier story Page 7.)

Battle On To Free Laos Force

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)—Neutralist troops were reported driving toward the town of Xieng Khouang Thursday in an effort to free men and materials seized by Communist forces.

Refugees fleeing the Plain of Jars battle area poured into Vientiane with stories of widespread hunger and fear.

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—United Nations Secretary-General U Thant called Thursday for a new 14-nation conference on Laos, where clashes have threatened a resumption of civil war.

Will Death Sub Be Deadly?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Scientists differed somewhat Thursday about the threat of radioactivity from the sunken nuclear submarine Thresher. But opinions were weighted heavily on the side of optimism.

They ranged from estimates of "no danger now or ever" to a qualified prediction that some years from now there might be enough radioactivity released to have some effect on marine life.

All those commenting agreed there has been and will be no underwater nuclear explosion in the missing submarine. The worst that is foreseen is slow leakage of radioactive materials from the Thresher's atomic power plant. The 8,400-foot depth of the presumed sinking is seen as the chief safety factor.

These comments in interviews and their opinions included: Vice Admiral Hyman G. Rickover, often called "the father of the atomic submarine": "I can assure you there is no radioactive hazard as a result of this unfortunate accident."

"The reactor can remain submerged indefinitely in sea water without creating any hazard."

Dr. Joseph Liberman, a top nuclear-safety expert employed by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission:

Under the worst conceivable conditions of radiation release, natural dilution and dispersion by ocean currents would prevent creation of any significant hazard.

Dr. Bostwick Ketchum, a biologist and oceanographer:

He expressed belief there will be radiation release that will constitute some limited hazard. He put it this way: "(It) seems certain that there will be high-level radioactivity added to the ocean in that area. I would not

Gambling Trial Put on Ice

NENANA, Alaska (AP)—Trial of two resort owners accused of allowing gambling in their lodges was postponed Thursday because most everyone in town is busy compiling the book on the annual pool to pick the time the ice will break up in the Tanana River. In fact, they're compiling it in the building to be used for the courtroom.

The trial will be rechecked after the ice breaks.

Near Union Bay

Victoria Man Dies as Car Leaves Road

COURTENAY—Edward Howard Baker, 55, of 1321 Fort, died Thursday night in a highway accident south of here on the Island Highway.

Mr. Baker, president of a stationery firm in Victoria, was driving alone at the time. His car, police said, apparently swerved off the road in the middle of a one-mile straight stretch of the Island Highway, about a mile north of Union Bay.

The car ran into the ditch, and struck a concrete culvert, police said.

Second Win For Toronto

Toronto Maple Leafs beat Detroit Red Wings, 4-3, in Toronto last night for a 3-0 lead in their best-of-seven Stanley Cup hockey final. Third game will be played Sunday in Detroit. See story Page 2.

Maritime Paralysis

Hundreds of Cars Left Stranded In New Blizzard

MONCTON, N.B. (CP)—The second spring storm to blast the Maritimes in a week paralyzed three counties in eastern New Brunswick Thursday and stranded 500 to 1,000 cars on highways within a 50-mile radius of Moncton.

Premier Louis J. Robichaud spent several hours among about 60 vehicles stranded in the 17-inch snowfall. The premier, after a telephone call to Finance Minister L. B. DesBrisay, said he probably would spend the night in a motel or rural home near neighboring Salisbury.

EMERGENCY Mr. DesBrisay, in a statement over radio and television, said the situation had reached emergency proportions in Westmorland, Kent and Albert counties. However, he said "everything possible" was being done by authorities to clear highways and reach persons who still might be stranded in their cars.

FIRST WORDS Mr. DesBrisay's first words on his radio and television statement were:

"This is an emergency. . . . RCMP in Sackville near the Nova Scotia border said the situation was 'terrible' as more than 13 inches of snow had fallen on the area during the 24 hours preceding 3 p.m. Thursday.

RCMP said many motorists had called them to report they had left their cars and were spending the night in farm houses.

Air traffic was halted in the province since about 5:30 p.m. The storm crippled power and telephone communications in the three counties and blocked all main arteries.

Gusts Tip Trains Off Rails

CORNER BROOK, Nfld. (CP)—Fifteen cars of two freight trains were derailed Thursday as gale-force winds pounded across western Newfoundland.

The winds, at times gusting to 110 miles an hour, tipped over 10 cars on an eastbound CNR freight train shortly after it left Port aux Basques, the narrow-gauge railway's western terminal.

Later, another five cars toppled in the high winds, these part of another freight standing by in the area waiting for the winds to die down.

Eleven Killed In Yugoslavia

BELGRADE (Reuters)—Eleven persons were killed and nine others injured when a bus and a truck collided Wednesday night on a road near Zagreb in western Yugoslavia.

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal and Conservative top brass re-hashed the political situation in separate closed sessions Thursday amid growing indications that Prime Minister Diefenbaker will give up the reins of government early next week.

Mr. Diefenbaker and all but one of his cabinet ministers gathered for the first cabinet session since Monday's election defeat of the Progressive Conservatives. The absentees were Postmaster General Ellen Fairclough, reported vacationing in the Caribbean.

The prime minister maintained his wait-and-see attitude about whether he will resign. But informants indicated that top Conservatives are pressing him to step down as prime minister early next week.

By TERRY HAMMOND

A Social Credit member of the highways probe yesterday asked chairman Irvine Corbett (SC—Yale) to consider contempt proceedings against an NDP MLA for "deliberate intimidation."

Dan Campbell (SC—Comox) accused Gordon Dowding (NDP—Burnaby) of threatening to punch his nose and to sue him for remarks made during the hearings.

EVOKES LAUGHTER

His charge evoked laughter among opposition members of the 13-man committee and even Mr. Corbett smiled when he said he would take the matter under advisement.

Health Minister Eric Martin grinned broadly as he admonished opposition members, "It's no laughing matter."

Mr. Dowding, who has been unofficial legal adviser to NDP members on the investigating committee, jumped up at the conclusion of Mr. Campbell's statement and said the alleged threats had nothing to do with the proceedings of the committee.

"It's what he was going to do in Courtney," he cried. He did not elaborate.

Mr. Campbell made his charge just as the committee resumed its public hearings after a noon adjournment.

AFTER COMMENTS

He said that "on March 29, as a result of comments made by me to be found on Page 1709, Volume 20, of the transcript, Mr. Gordon Dowding, NDP member of the legislature for Burnaby, said, 'If you don't quit bringing up my name in this case I will punch you on the nose.'"

He dismissed the threat at the time, he added, attributing it to "ill manners, ill-temper or both."

MORE SERIOUS

But since then Mr. Dowding had made "an even more serious threat."

"Yesterday he threatened to sue me if I didn't shut up," said the diminutive Comox member.

"After some reflection I felt that I can no longer be quiet about this deliberate intimidation of a member of this committee."

"I therefore ask you Mr. Chairman to take this matter under advisement with counsel to see if the above incidents are not a serious contempt of the committee."

BREAKS SILENCE

Randolph Harding (NDP—Kaslo-Slocan) was among the first to break ensuing silence.

"Aw, we'll protect this timid little member," he said.

The committee sits again at 9:30 Tuesday morning, at which time it is scheduled to hear testimony from Glen Geery, former superintendent on Trans Canada Highway Project 818—the job which sparked serious allegations against Highways Minister Gagliardi and his department.

OTTAWA (UPI)—Sen. Homeric of Home Lines, having suffered damage to her rudder, turned back to Montreal harbor with the assistance of tugs and docked Wednesday at Montreal East, a spokesman of the line said.

Algeria

'Madman' Shoots Minister

ALGIERS (Reuters)—Foreign Minister Mohammed Khemisti is battling for his life after a frenzied Algerian youth shouting "This is for Algeria" shot him in the face outside the National Assembly Thursday.

The wound - he said - was captured.

A government communique said the prisoner's interrogation showed the attack was an isolated act. Pending the final outcome of the investigation, it added, the attack was the act of a "madman."

OUTLOOK GRAVE

A medical bulletin signed by two specialists flown here from Paris called the outlook "very grave" and added there was "no question" of an operation to remove the bullet from the unconscious minister's skull at this stage.

The bulletin said Khemisti had lost the use of his limbs and his breathing was being maintained artificially.

CABINET MEETS

Premier Ahmed Ben Bella flew in from eastern Algeria. He spent 20 minutes at Khemisti's bedside, then presided at an emergency cabinet meeting to discuss the attack.

Ben Bella claimed earlier the attack was an indication of foreign attempts—linked with Algerian reactionaries—to obstruct the country's march toward socialism.

Even Reds Laud Plea for Peace

LONDON (CP) — Secretary-General U Thant of the United Nations joined in the worldwide praise of Pope John's new encyclical on peace.

The U.S. government, in its first comment on a papal encyclical, also welcomed the document, entitled Peace on Earth.

But the Soviet news agency Tass carried a brief digest in its overseas service stressing the sections urging a halt to the arms race.

Among sentences picked out was one in which the Pope warned against accidental nuclear war.

This favorable interest in a major Roman Catholic document was mirrored in Europe's left-wing and Communist press, which was as quick to jump into print with favorable responses as conservative and Catholic newspapers and politicians.

The organs of Western Europe's two biggest Communist parties—L'Unita in Italy and L'Humanite in France — both praised the Pope's views on peace and social change.

'You'll Be Murderers'

MONTREAL (CP) — Top-ranking officers from three police forces today warned the radical separatist group Quebec Liberation Front their terrorist activities could lead to killings that would make each member a party to murder.

"They take too many chances," a police statement said. "One day, without wanting to, they are going to kill somebody and then find themselves involved in murder."

The officers held a private meeting Wednesday to co-ordinate plans designed to stop the extremists. A statement on some of the views expressed at the meeting was released Thursday.

The meeting was attended by Chief Det.-Insp. William Fitzpatrick of the Montreal police department, Chief Insp. Gerard Houle of the Quebec Provincial Police, and RCMP Inspector J. R. Carriere.

A campaign of minor bombings and bomb scares erupted in the province about a month ago. The QLF took credit for most of them and issued pamphlets saying they were dedicated to "the liberation of Quebec by violent revolution."

Officers said the terrorist campaign "appeared to be the work of mentally disturbed people with an overtone of Communist-prepared propaganda."

Kennedy Won't Oppose 'Some' Steel Markups
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy served notice on the American steel industry Thursday that he will fight any "general across-the-board increase" in prices but won't balk at selective mark-ups on some steel products.

His statement, issued nearly 48 hours after Wheeling Steel Corporation of West Virginia raised prices on some items $8 a ton, virtually assured a moderate bulge in the steel price line.

It also probably eased the way for the AFL-CIO United Steelworkers of America to hammer out a wage increase in contract bargaining which the big union is free to reopen after April 30.

And, if major producers are content to accept Kennedy's new ground rules, it probably has spared the United States a re-enactment of the bitter government vs. industry struggle which ended in a retreat for the steel titans just a year ago.

There was no immediate comment from the union or from U.S. Steel Corp., the No. 1 producer in the U.S.

The stock market soared dramatically, reflecting an apparent feeling that Kennedy's statement had been conciliatory. Several steel issues hit 1963 highs.

The Governor-General

IT IS WITH a great sense of relief that Canadians throughout the nation have now learned that the heart attack suffered by their much revered governor-general was not as serious as was first suspected.

Seldom in the history of Canada has an individual evoked such personal affection among his countrymen as has Maj.-Gen. George Vanier. His many outstanding qualities—bravery, integrity, patriotism and courtesy, among them—have set the highest example for all Canadians to follow.

Indeed, his past exploits and accomplishments along with the impeccable manner in which he has carried out his often onerous job in recent years have made him almost a legendary figure in his own lifetime.

In his adult career spanning nearly half-a-century, the major part of it spent serving his country, he has been a lawyer, a soldier, a diplomat and a patriot.

He was a founder member of the Royal 22nd Regiment—the now famed Quebec Van Dooze—with whom he served in the First World War, winning the Distinguished Service Order and the Military Cross and Bar.

He also lost a leg in the bloody Battle of Passchendaele—a disability he refused to allow to hold him back in his dedication to the service of Canada.

He later served with distinction in a military capacity as a delegate to the League of Nations preparatory disarmament commission, and in 1931 became secretary to the office of the high commissioner in London, where he remained until 1939 when he was named Canadian minister to France.

He narrowly escaped from France when it was overrun by the Nazis in 1940 and shortly after was posted to the London headquarters of Gen. de Gaulle's French Committee of Liberation. When Paris was eventually liberated he was appointed Canadian ambassador to France, a position he held until he retired at the age of 65 in 1953.

He returned to Canada to become a company director and a member of the Canada Council, devoting much of his time to charitable work, and was appointed governor-general in 1959.

During his years in office he has visited almost every part of Canada always presenting despite his 75 years a vigorous and impressive figure.

It is typical of him that today, though suffering the effects of a heart attack, he has announced through his staff that he considers himself quite capable of carrying on the official duties of his office. Such great spirit and selflessness lends true meaning to his personal definition of the word patriotism.

He has described it this way: "A deep-rooted, deep-running observance of duty to, and religious fervor for, one's native land." By his determined action today, no less than his achievements of yesterday, Governor-General George Vanier has proved conclusively that he lives by what he believes—a valuable lesson in responsibility and citizenship to us all.

Something to Ponder

WHETHER the people of Cadboro Bay are right or wrong in thinking a high-rise apartment in the vicinity would spoil the character of their neighborhood, and whether a majority of interested Fairfield residents around a planned private hospital development are right or wrong in believing it will devalue their properties, many citizens probably will be disturbed by the principles applied in these reasoning cases.

In both instances, most members of the councils have given priority to considerations other than the protesting voices, or signatures, of residents who fear the effects on their homes.

This may appear to make a mockery of the legal requirement that a council hold a public hearing for all those who think themselves affected before passing a zoning bylaw. In fact, however, such hearings may have little weight. There is no requirement that councils shall be guided by what is said.

Rather, they are specifically called upon to take into consideration, in making zoning regulations, these aspects: The promotion of health, safety, convenience and welfare of the public; the prevention of the overcrowding of land, and the preservation of the amenities peculiar to any zone; the securing of adequate light, air and access; the value of the land and the nature of its present and prospective use and occupancy; the character of each zone, the character of the buildings already erected, and the peculiar suitability of the zone, for particular uses; the conservation of property values.

In the Fairfield case, the first of these considerations at least would appear to back up the decision of city council to rezone the property, although there will be widespread feeling that the neighborhood should be given every possible guarantee that the development will be carried out to the high standard proposed.

In the Cadboro Bay instance, not yet finally decided, it is to be noted that there is no direct reference in the list to raising municipal tax revenue by permitting or encouraging major construction, which seems to be the first thought of the majority of the council.

But in any event it will be seen that the residents of a neighborhood, no matter what their investment in their homes and no matter what care they selected the place where they wanted to live, have few if any distinct rights in the preservation of the qualities they hold dear. Whether this situation should be allowed to endure is something for every property-owner to think about.

Mr. Bumble Is Right

THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL'S department may plume itself on its legal rectitude but with respect to its rulings on bingo games one is reminded of Mr. Bumble's famous reference when he said that "if the law supposes that, the law is a ass, a idiot."

Certainly the ordinary citizen will see it as anomalous and absurd that it should be a hall, or the operators of a hall, which must abide by the limitation on bingo games allowed in any one year and not the clubs or organizations which stage these games and simply rent a hall for that purpose.

All this pettifogging distinction does is make it more difficult for organizations with recognized charitable aims to raise funds in a manner permissible under the law, even if that law is also eccentric in determining the number of bingo games that may be played.

Common sense should indicate that it is the sponsors of bingo who should comply with a limitation, not the abstract and thus neutral halls themselves.

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes, and ships,
and sealing wax ...
By TOM TAYLOR

IT is rather blunt of a Welshman, even if he is beyond cavil since it's his own folk he is talking about, to say that the famous village name of Llanfair... etc. is a fake coined to bamboozle the English tongue.

He is thus dispelling an illusion, a fond one to boot. There is a rich flavor to place names that are picturesque and tell a story and this one, the longest in Britain and maybe elsewhere for all I know, is too intriguing to lose.

Lost it will be to public gaze, apparently, as the misleading report claims 3,000 miles of British railway track and 2,000 stations. For this means the proud name of Llanfairpwllgwyngyll... etc. will disappear from the station and the wonderment of tourists.

I wouldn't myself call it a fake exactly, rather an expansion as imagination and history were confined to add spice to semantics.

Actually my own files held the secret, put there some years ago as readers added to my knowledge by clippings from Welsh papers. The information was public enough but not broadcast as the latest word on the subject has been and I refrained from exposing it.

Not being a Welshman and having some Welsh friends here I didn't dare.

Set out in full the name is in one extract, a cartoon, to wit: Llanfairpwllgwyngylllogoroch y rhodri mawr ynnwlltynillioegogoch. And the explanation given is that this means "The Church of St. Mary in a hollow of white grass near to a rapid whirlpool and to St. David's Church close to a red cave."

Another clipping, from the Holyhead and Anglesey Mail of September 11, 1953, relates the story of the name according to the records of the parish. You might find it interesting, so I quote the relevant part herewith.

Llanfair Pwll Gwyngyll is known, throughout Great Britain at least, for its name; it is supposed to be the place with the longest name in the world. In fact, its name is simply "Llanfair," but to distinguish it from other places of the same name, "Pwll Gwyngyll" was added. The earliest records show that "Llanfair Pwll Gwyngyll" correctly represents the original form. When written as Llanfairpwllgwyngyll the name looks formidable and owing to its three "L"s it is difficult to pronounce and it came to be regarded as the typical example of the unpronounceable place names of Wales.

In order to add to the wonderment of the English, some "literary" tallies proceeded to expand it thus: "Llanfairpwllgwyngylllogoroch y rhodri mawr ynnwlltynillioegogoch."

"Llan" made up of "Llan" (church) and "Fair" (Mary) was the name of the church which is dedicated to the Blessed Virgin Mary. Between the two bridges the Mersey Straits widens into a pool called "Pwll Ceri," and to the southwest of the Britannia Bridge it forms another pool on the banks of which stands the Church of Mary—Llanfair; this is probably "Pwll Gwyngyll."

But the church, Llanfair, is not far from "Pwll Ceri," so the inventive tallies elaborated it thus: Llanfair is "go gwyn" the "chwynn drowell"; Llanfair also stands on an island at the other end of Pwll Ceri, and from the name of the island in the middle of Pwll Ceri "Gored-goch" (the red weir) the sonorous ending of "gogoch" was invented.

There you have it. A Welsh authority of old described "Llanfair Pwll Gwyngyll" as "The Church of Mary of the Pool of White Grass—as a most beautiful name; the other as a caricature."

Few of us are qualified to judge; it has been enough simply to note and wonder. And perhaps only my Welsh readers, particularly those who know the village, will follow fully the foregoing explanation. But it certainly is intriguing, and worth placing in your scrapbook. And after such evolution it seems a pity to disturb the illusion, and worse to drop the name altogether.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt died of a cerebral hemorrhage at Warm Springs, Ga., 18 years ago today—in 1945. Despite his affliction by infantile paralysis in 1921, Roosevelt fought and conquered his physical handicap to become one of America's greatest statesmen. His first term of office began in 1933 and despite opposition by many financial and industrial leaders and much of the press, he again swept to power in 1936 by a massive majority. In 1944 he had been re-elected for an unprecedented fourth term.

Problems of Race and Color

Crises in the Commonwealth

By H. L. KENNEDY
(Fifth of His Parts)

IT is events in the political world that have created the most potent dangers that the Commonwealth countries must face if their community is to survive and to make its possible contribution to the solution of racial and color problems in other parts of the world.

In 1956 a crisis of the first magnitude in Commonwealth and world affairs arose in the Middle East. Committed to a course as well as it was immoral by a prime minister who was seriously ill, Britain collaborated with France in the use of force against Egypt over Suez. Most of us can remember the complete incredulity with which we heard the first broadcast news that British planes were dropping bombs on Port Said.

The effect on the Commonwealth was such as to threaten catastrophe. As one Asian ambassador said, "No matter what the Belgians or the Dutch or any other white people might do to their trade or financial interests, London and Paris would not even have thought of using bombs. But the Egyptians, like us, are colored. So killing seemed appropriate."

The action and language of Australia under the belated Mr. Menzies further infuriated the Asian and African members of the Commonwealth.

An Improvement

Siberian Shopping

By MARK FRANKLAND from Irkutsk

ALTHOUGH Irkutsk in Siberia is 3,000 miles east of Moscow and therefore well inside Russia's Asian territory, the Saturday afternoon shopper and the shops on Uritsky Street at first appear little different from those in any town near Moscow. There are the young women wearing the same fluffy flower-pot hats, the old women with worn wool scarves round their heads. The young men wear trousers ranging from the respectably wide to the unspectacularly narrow, the latter occasionally combined with long hair sideburns and a general Teddyboy air.

The biggest shop on the street is the universal stores. It has a pale baroque facade designed to please the mercantile bourgeoisie who flourished in this important trading centre before the Revolution. Upstairs, in the clothing department, the atmosphere is part baroque, part dusty. But downstairs there is a smart new summer department with discreet lighting and wood paneling. A pretty girl assistant was selling lipstick. She was also flirting with a young man who was clearly not interested in the tube of after-shave cream he was holding.

At another counter there was Chinese soap for sale with the wrappers printed in English. Upstairs there were shirts at seven rubles each (about $7.50) from the "Nations Sundries Import and Export Corporation, Hanoi, Vietnam." Irkutsk, at least, is keeping up the old merchant tradition of trade with Asia.

Many people were buying clothes. Earlier in the week, representatives of the Irkutsk region had met to criticize the quality of local customer goods (and also to discuss ways of providing more and better shops, a problem particularly acute in the town's suburbs and new towns in the region).

Although most of the clothes compared unfavorably with good Moscow standards, and men's suits cost between 100 to 150 rubles (a month's salary), the shops were busy. A young man deliberating over a suit had an Asiatic face. He was a Buryat Mongol, a people who live within the Irkutsk economic region.

The Buryats were more in evidence at the open market at the end of Uritsky Street. The market is an important feature of Russian town life. Here the peasants sell the food they produce on their own plots of land, and often what she cannot buy in the state shops—particularly fresh vegetables and fruit.

So did the supine acquiescence of New Zealand—a country that during the years between the First and Second Wars had been almost alone in an independent and courageous effort to make the Charter of the League of Nations a real basis of international behavior.

It was at this point that Mr. Lester Pearson made his great contribution not only to world peace, but to the preservation of the Commonwealth. The proposals he presented and the action that resulted from his collaboration with the secretary-general of the United Nations opened the way to a solution that has since been praised even by Sir Anthony Eden himself. But almost more important than that, he proved to the colored nations of the Commonwealth that the association would not always split along color lines, that there would be no closing of ranks by the old members against the new. As anyone who has discussed these matters with representatives of the colored nations of the Commonwealth can confirm, Canadian action in the Suez crisis may well prove one of the most important dates in our mutual history.

Last it be charged that in praising Mr. Pearson's actions at the time of Suez, I am taking part in the present political campaign in Canada. Let me add that I consider his recent volte face on defence policy a most tragic mistake.

Fortunately the Suez incident was soon recognized as the uncharacteristic mistake of an ill man who acted without consultation with his colleagues, and against the true instincts of his people.

More deeply rooted and pregnant with greater ultimate danger was the crisis that arose in relations with South Africa.

The issue there was a matter of race and color alone. The present government and the majority of the white population of South Africa sincerely believe that there is such an inherent difference between the races, and that the European settlers are so incomparably superior to the native African, that no solution to the problem of relations between the two groups can be found except through complete and permanent apartheid. Until recently the government was supported in this view by almost the full force of the Dutch church organizations in South Africa.

This is not the time nor the place to discuss the many ramifications of the problems of the native peoples, the Asian (colored) community, and the white rulers of South Africa. But it is pertinent to realize that the action of the other Commonwealth countries in relation to official South African proposals for solving the problem was of the utmost importance in the history of Commonwealth and of world affairs.

The question of whether South Africa should be allowed to remain in the Commonwealth was faced in the Conference of Commonwealth Prime Ministers in March of 1961. Under the leadership of Canada and some of the Asian and African members, South Africa was so severely criticized that its continuance in the Commonwealth became impossible. Withdrawal or resignation was the result. The position of Canada at the conference as the senior member of the Commonwealth next to Great Britain, was both difficult and crucial. There was a time in United Nations affairs when, because of its cautious efforts to avoid giving offence, Canada became known as "The Great Abstainer." (Fortunately that is no longer true.) But on this Commonwealth issue at London there could be no abstinence. Each member had to stand and be counted.

The Canadian government had repeatedly declared itself opposed to the principle and practice of racial discrimination. But the Canadian government, and I suspect most of the Canadian people, would have preferred to sit tight and to hope that over the years the white rulers of South Africa would come to recognize the inevitable and find some means of solving their problem that would be in accord with modern concepts of both expediency and virtue, of justice and morality.

"Goodness, you people get so excited about nothing!"

Old Prisons

Degrading System

By CARANDREA
from London

I HAVE known quite a number of people who have been in prison. Some of them have been professional criminals. The others have been ordinary, normal citizens who have come unstuck.

The professionals take the "Nick" in their stride. The amateurs invariably come out disgusted and sickened and angry about the conditions inside.

To this latter reaction many people say: "That's the idea of prison, thoroughly unpleasant. What do you expect—all modern comforts?"

Lord Stomham in a powerful speech described the conditions that exist in a majority of our jails. The food is vile, the accommodation is medieval and the sanitation is abominable. In Brixton last year, 48 prisoners were strapped into strait-jackets (what, no thumbcrews?), and in Durham, out of 935 prisoners, 543 were clapped into solitary confinement.

"A man is ill fed," said Lord Stomham, "appallingly clothed, surrounded by every difficulty and incredible meanness in his efforts to keep clean and has his self-respect as a man torn to shreds."

I do not blame the prison governors who for the most part are humane men.

I blame a long succession of home secretaries and their governments, who, after fifty years of promises to do something radical about our prisons, have failed. They have not pulled down the horrible, antiquated buildings in which our swiftly increasing criminal population is being jammed. The whole system is degrading and the net result is not reform but resentment against society and a desire for revenge.

In the army they know how to do these things. Discipline can be severe, but even in regiments with a harsh code of conduct, the men are clean, well fed and never degraded. They may have a hard time, but their self-respect is left intact.

The sooner we raze these civilian hellholes in which the majority of our prisoners are housed, the better.

A SAD little note to a correspondent about the boy, who was christened Saxon Saxon Dymally, son of Saxon Saxon Dymally, Tollemache, Tolle-mache, Orellana, Plantagenet, Tollemache. I have now discovered that he was born in 1884 and died of wounds as a major in France on February 20, 1917. He was a member of the Tollemache family who have always had Debreit in length, style and dash in nomenclature.

Other examples: Lyonolph Yvrallo, Odin Nemo, Eghert Lynnel, Toedmag, Hugh Exch, swynne Saxon, Ean Cromwell, Orna Nevill Dymall, Plantagenet, Tollemache, Tollemache.

Also Lyonolph Cospatrick, Bruce Berkeley Jermyn, Tull-bruce Peterham de Orellana, Dymall Plantagenet.

The world record, however, I think stands with a certain Mr. Zeus, who, although way up in quantity is way down in quality.

His Christian names are Adolph Blaine Charles David Earl Frederick Gerald Hubert Irvin John Kenneth Lloyd Martin Nero Oliver Paul Quincy Randolph Sherman Thomas Umay Victor William Xerus Yancy. He lives in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and prefers to be known as Mr. B. H. Zeus.

The Packsack

By GREGORY CLARK

AFTER all, we are all victims of time, that greatest predator of all, man. He won't kill hawks. Wolves don't live off other wolves. Even the hungriest tiger would slink away into the jungle, embarrassed beyond expression, if the thought entered his mind to eat another tiger.

But man, the master predator, is a man eater. Apart from war, in which they hunt one another with the highest motives and prey sound national economic principles, man seems to believe that they are at their best when living off one another.

Indeed, there are vast areas of the human scheme in which it is only possible for men to survive if they are preying on other men. How many fundamental businesses in the nation would collapse if employers could not make money out of employing employees? What would lawyers do without clients? What would grocers do without customers? Ah, it is true the honest man does not feel he is preying on his fellow man. He absolves himself by thinking that all he wants is an honest living.

But sometimes a man feels—strange, odd, when to the feeling of the hawk, the wolf or the tiger. He sees his chance to make a killing. Alas, it is not upon a hawk or a tiger that he pounces.

—John Donne.

With the Classics

Death, be not proud, though some have called thee
Mighty and dreadful, for thou art not so;
For those whom thou think'st thou dost overthrow
Die not, poor Death; yet worst thou canst kill me.
From rest and sleep, which but thy pictures be,
Much pleasure, then from thee, much more must flow;
And soonest our best men with thee do go—
Rest of their bones and souls' delivery!

—John Donne.

Election Could Be Historic

Canada's Conflicting Forces Must Be Integrated

What was really at stake was how the Canadian people feel about the revolutionary changes that have taken place in their country during recent years, largely as a result of heavy U.S. investment.

By SAMUEL LUBELL

The most striking single fact that leaps out from any analysis of Canada's election is the astonishingly sharp cleavage between the urban and rural vote.

In this respect Monday's vote, indecisive as it still hangs, may turn out to be one of those historic "watershed" elections that mark the end of one era and the start of a new one.

The fact that Prime Minister John Diefenbaker failed in his efforts to rouse Canadian voters to "stand up against the United States" opens the opportunity for an even more intimate relationship between Canada and the U.S. — provided the leaders of both countries understand the tangle of forces in conflict.

If they do not, then Monday's election could prove just another of wearisome series of voting battles to come — in which how to live alongside the U.S. remains the crucial issue.

These conclusions are inspired partly by my cross-country talks with Canadian voters during the campaign but even more by some research I have just completed on the last Canadian election in which "anti-Americanism" was the key issue — the election of 1911.

That vote, in which the Conservatives swept the Liberals out of office, also showed a sharp urban-rural division.

But in 1911 the farmers and urban residents lined up exactly opposite to how they voted this year.

The prairie provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, which stood so solidly for Mr. Diefenbaker on Monday were quite "pro-American" in 1911. They actually gave the Liberals a heavier vote than in the previous election.

In contrast, Toronto and its environs swung to the Conservatives in 1911 with about as clean a sweep as the Liberals won on April 8.

Between 1911 and 1963, in short, the citadels of "anti-American" feeling in Canada were transformed into strongholds of "pro-American" sentiment.

What produced this historic shift?

Plainly it was the changes in Canada's economy. In 1911 the urban-industrial interests looked mainly to England for trade and investment and voted for the pro-British Conservative party. Today the expanding urban and industrial ridings share the feeling voiced by a Montreal accountant, "Canada's future is tied to the giant in the south."

Most of the Canadians I interviewed during the campaign regarded the dispute over nuclear warheads as a test of how they felt about the U.S. rather than the weapons themselves. To them a vote for Liberal leader Lester Pearson was largely a vote for a government that would get along with rather than fight with the U.S.

However, the closeness of the vote warns how deep are the resistances among many Canadians against continued dependence on the U.S. These strains — which will have to be eased and reconciled — emerge quite graphically if one compares this year's vote with that of 1953 when the Liberals were last in power.

There are 61 seats which they held ten years ago, but lost on Monday. These cluster into three groups.

First, there are the farmers in the western prairies who sell their wheat in world markets in competition with American wheat growers.

Then there are chronically depressed eastern Quebec and the Maritime provinces, several predominantly labor ridings and finally a number of rural, small town ridings in Ontario that border the regions of heaviest industrial expansion.

In contrast, among the seats which went Liberal last Monday will be found 15 urban and suburban ridings which were staunchly Conservative 10 years ago.

The shift towards the Liberals, in short, is concentrated almost entirely in the parts of Canada where economic integration with the U.S. has been most productive and most effective. Where this integration trails off or fails to reach the people, the appeal also trails off or vanishes.

This pattern of voting suggests that one crucial Canadian weakness is the uneven economic development of different segments of the economy.

Scientists of Cornell University have proposed that the moon's great plains consist of deep dust. They say that dust particles may cling together to form miniature lunar castles of fragile goomier.

Another theory is that the moon's surface rubble is coated with something like dusty cobwebs. A number of Russian scientists have proposed a covering of foamlike material fashioned out of porous rock.

Moon fuzz is created, Dr. Warren surmises, by a solar wind of protons from the sun hitting the porous rock of the moon and causing tiny explosions, or sputtering.

Some ejected atoms escape into space, he thinks, while others cling together, in a process scientists call "vacuum welding," to create so-called reticulated fuzz structures.

omy. Some steps would seem necessary to distribute the gains of the postwar years more evenly across the nation.

These economic strains are probably even heavier than indicated by the election. On election day many Canadians decided that above all else "we must have a majority government or nothing will be done."

Instead of casting "protest" votes for one of the minor parties, many voters decided to stick with the two major parties.

This was particularly true in Quebec province where early in the campaign disheartened Conservatives talked of shifting to Real Caouette's Social Creditists. In the end, however, many Conservatives stuck with their party. The net result was a better Conservative showing than expected and a drop in the Social Creditists' seats.

Similarly the worker-tagged New Democratic Party, far from gaining, dropped two ridings below their 1962 showing. In addition to the 17 ridings they won, however, the NDP drew a fifth or more of the vote in at least 25 more ridings.

To sum up, in one of my campaign articles I wrote that Mr. Diefenbaker's action in raising old age pensions and in selling wheat to Red China symbolized how much more the Canadian people expect than their government than they did only 10 years ago.

If and when Mr. Pearson becomes prime minister he will have to produce a legislative program that moderates and reconciles most of these pressures for "more" from various segments of the Canadian electorate.

In trying to do so, he is bound to run up against the effects of American control of so much of Canada's economy.

Can these two somewhat conflicting sets of pressures — those resulting from American investment and those rising out of Canadian demands for greater economic recognition — be brought into balance? That essentially I believe is the task that lies ahead.

Grants to faculty members of Victoria University worth $26,200 are playing a part in the college's growth to full university status.

Grants which are for scientific research, were made by the National Research Council and the Defence Research Board of Canada. They will be used mainly to purchase specialized equipment which will become the property of the university.

A study of the role of pigments in animal life will be initiated by a grant of $5,000 to Dr. A. R. Fontaine, assistant professor in the biology department.

A $3,000 grant to Dr. L. S. Smith of the biology department will provide apparatus for the study of the circulatory system of the octopus, while a third, new award of $2,500 to Dr. J. L. Climenhaga, head of the physics department, will assist his study on the relative abundance of carbon isotopes in coal stars.

Profit Par for Industry

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

Gordon Gibson, who sits in a chair, a good hood and a lavish spender. Only a few weeks ago he brought members of the North Vancouver Chamber of Commerce over to Victoria in his private yacht to pay centennial greetings to the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

A genial, if ebullient, sort of a chap, a good hood and a lavish spender. Only a few weeks ago he brought members of the North Vancouver Chamber of Commerce over to Victoria in his private yacht to pay centennial greetings to the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

So it was a little surprising, and out of keeping with his own performance, that Mr. Gibson at the recent annual meeting of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River, of which he is a shareholder, told the company that their profits had risen "to almost an embarrassing level."

Was it a case of the pot calling the kettle black? One hardly thinks so, because while the method by which Mr. Gibson made his pile is not public knowledge, the books and operations of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River are certainly defined and documented.

J. V. Clyne, MacMillan's chairman, quickly challenged Mr. Gibson at the meeting when he declared that at no time did his firm feel embarrassed by the money it made. Certainly in 1962 MacMillan made a lot of money — $36,000,000 — but the amount of money it made on every dollar of sales was 10 cents, and that figure is one which is generally recognized as being about par for the forest industry.

The 10 per cent profit on the sales dollar was approximated by other leading forest industry companies in Canada — notably B.C. Forest Products and Crown Zellerbach. One eastern newsprint company made a lot more — 14 cents on every dollar sale.

MacMillan's 10 per cent could hardly be claimed as excessive when it is realized that practically anyone today can make six per cent on his money without turning a finger to earn it.

In fairness to MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River, Mr. Gibson should be answered. Here are some figures which may interest the millionaire M.L.A.

In 1962 MacMillan earned $1.73 a share; it paid in wages the equivalent of $3.70 a share and it paid in federal and provincial taxes $1.92 a share. The shareholders received 75 cents a share in dividends.

In order to make its record earnings of $36,000,000 in 1962, MacMillan spent $300,000,000 over the past nine years in plant expansion. In the same period it has provided new permanent jobs for more than 1,000 British Columbians.

Yet in 1962 when MacMillan and Bloedel and Powell River

U.S. Scientist Thinks

Moon Like Peach,

Covered with Fuzz

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
United Press International

A scientist pictures the moon as covered with fuzz, like a newly picked peach. If that is the case, you can discard the lunar castles, dusty cobwebs, and rock foam notions of other scientists who have tried to figure out what the moon's surface is like.

The moon fuzz idea is proposed by Dr. Charles R. Warren of the U.S. Geological Survey in the technical weekly Science. He said it is the most plausible explanation for observed lunar shadow effects attributed to backscattering of light.

According to Dr. Warren, moon fuzz is about an inch deep and pretty queer stuff, quite different from peach fuzz.

"The fuzz," he said, "consists mostly of empty space, and may resemble a miniature tinker-toy structure or may be more like a loose aggregate of snowflakes or jackstones.

Dr. Warren, who works in the survey's military geology branch, made a study of the moon's terrain for the U.S. army engineers. The engineers have been investigating ideas for a moon base in case the United States ever decides to build one.

Ship Boom Ending?

The boom in British Columbia's shipbuilding industry may be coming to an end, according to Clarence Wallace, president of Burrard Dry Dock Company, and its Yarrow associate.

In his annual report to shareholders, Mr. Wallace said, the net profit for 1962 was $1,052,030, compared with $796,830 in 1961, but that the prospects for 1963 indicated a greatly lowered volume of work, especially during the latter part of the year.

During 1962 Burrard and its associate employed about 2,500 persons, but the president does not hold out hope that this level will be maintained. "We must anticipate a reduced level of employment."

He said that owing to the higher labor rates in Canada generally and in British Columbia in particular, Burrard's competitive position in tendering for foreign or eastern Canadian orders continues to show no improvement.

Mr. Wallace said the expected reduction in new shipbuilding orders was based on the reduction of the government's Ship Construction Assistance regulations from 40 per cent of the shipowners' cost to 35 per cent for contracts entered into after March 31, 1963.

PROFITS DROP

Johnston Terminals and Storage Ltd., which during the year acquired Healey's Carriage and Storage and Bray's Transfer Ltd. of Victoria, made less profit in 1962 than it did in 1961.

Earnings were $167,513 (80 cents a share) against $212,850 ($1.29) in 1961.

R. Murray Brink, president, said sales revenue was up by $2,000,000 over 1961 at $8,750,503, but that operating and administrative expenses increased during the year by $2,700,000 to $7,905,128.

Although competition in the business is intense, Mr. Brink expects Johnston Terminals will quickly realize the advantages of its integrated operations and that there will be future benefits in the shape of increased sales and profits.

Winchester Owners Urged to Report

Owners of 22-calibre model 63 Winchester rifles should report to RCMP detachments at once if they have not already done so, a police spokesman said last night.

RCMP are still searching for the owner of the murder weapon used in the shooting deaths of two Nanaimo teen-agers last October.

The death gun was discovered in the water at Long Lake just north of Nanaimo. Ballistic tests showed the rifle was used to kill Dan Phillips and Leslie Dixon, both 19, the night of Oct. 16.

By a process of elimination,

police hope to find the owner of the death gun.

Upwards of 70 persons with 22-calibre rifles have reported ownership to police.

Those who have not declared their rifles should report to the nearest RCMP detachment.

Judge Delivers Lengthy Charge To Dootson Jury

Case of Peter Howard Dootson, charged with attempted murder, went to the jury last night, following summation by prosecution and defence, and a lengthy charge by Mr. Justice J. S. Atkins.

Dootson, a psychiatric nurse's aid at the Oakquit Mental Home, is accused of attempting to murder fellow employee Robert Robinson by beating him with a blunt instrument and setting fire to him.

Late yesterday afternoon, Mr. Justice Atkins instructed the all-male jury Dootson could also be found guilty of two lesser charges.

Causing bodily harm with intent to wound. In this case, he said, the Crown must prove the intent to wound.

Assault causing bodily harm. Mr. Justice Atkins outlined to the jury a combination of possibilities from which they would have to arrive at the verdict.

Some of these combinations were:

● Robinson was struck with fist, no fire set to him.

● He was struck with an iron bar, no fire set to him.

● He was struck with an iron bar, fire was set to him.

● He was struck with fist, fire was set to him.

● He was struck with an iron bar, and fire was set to him.

The judge carefully and painstakingly explained the maze of possible combinations to a jury that followed every word he said.

Counsels Sum Up

Crown counsel Alan Baker and defence counsel Alan Bigelow earlier yesterday summed up the evidence, each attaching his own interpretation of the facts as told by a string of witnesses during nine days of the trial.

Here are Mr. Baker's points:

● (Robinson's) broken arm probably was received in the fall, the other injuries he received lying on the bed.

● He received the cut on the ear, the black eye and the burns on the bed.

● Burns include third-degree burns on the shoulders.

● It is likely that Robinson could lie there and not wake up while suffering these burns?

● It would take more than one blow to render him (Robinson) unconscious with fist blows.

● I suggest the injuries were caused by a blunt instrument.

● Blood found on an iron bar is not necessarily human blood. It could have been from an animal.

● The cigarettes Robinson smoked were "makkings." These will not smolder.

● No smoke was seen at 1:20 a.m. on the day of the incident.

Vancouver Given Chance To Host Canadian Games

MONTREAL (CP)—Vancouver and Quebec City have been invited to host the Canadian Games in 1965, a miniature Olympiad that would pit provinces against provinces in competitions ranging from horseback-pitching to handball and water polo.

The disclosure was made in an interview Wednesday night by Jack Davies of Montreal, vice-president of the Canadian Amateur Sports Federation. He said the summer games were offered to Vancouver and the winter section to Quebec City.

Davies described the initial reaction of Quebec City officials as one of "tremendous enthusiasm." They planned to tie it in with the annual winter carnival in the provincial capital. But he said authorities in Vancouver asked for "more details."

The federation, founded as a liaison body in 1947 under the name Canadian Sports Advisory Council, adopted the plan at a meeting in Ottawa Jan. 19. It's aimed at encouraging more Canadians to take up athletic activities.

The federal government has given approval in principle and has indicated it will provide financial support.

Davies said a meeting will be held early next week in Ottawa to discuss further details with federal authorities.

The games would be held in various Canadian centres every four years—filling out a staggered competitive agenda with the International Olympics, British Empire Games and Pan-American Games. But the chief object is to bring out athletes not quite up to international calibre.

Fish Development Program Boosts Manitoba Licences

WINNIPEG (CP)—Fishermen in Manitoba will have to pay more for the privilege of this year with the government raising licence fees in an attempt to finance a stepped-up program of fish development.

Resident anglers this year will have to pay $2.25 for their licence while non-residents will pay $5.50.

Last year a $1 fee covered the season.

Under the program, the government plans increased activity in the field of fish management, fish culture and research programs, including expanded stocking of accessible fishing waters.

The fish stocking will include an experimental stocking of 250,000 kokanee (land-locked Pacific salmon).

The season on all game fish generally opens May 15 with the exception of Arctic grayling and sturgeon, which opens June 15, and brook trout and splake, which have two seasons, one to Sept. 15 from May 15 and the other to March 1 from Oct. 15.

In addition, trout enthusiasts will have an extra two weeks, to April 30 from April 15 in certain designated waters in the province.

There again is no size limit to fish caught and creel limits are unchanged from last year with 10 fish the maximum a day for any combination of fish.

Daily limits for each type of fish include six Arctic grayling, char, goldies, moon-eye, large or smallmouth bass, whitefish or shagfin; eight northern pike, pickerel or muskie; five rainbow, lake or brown trout; two splake and one sturgeon. The daily limit for brook trout north of the 53rd parallel is two fish and south of the 53rd parallel is one fish.

A fisherman may have no more than 20 fish in his possession from any number of days fishing at any one time.

Busy Weekend Scheduled For Minor Soccer Clubs

It's shaping up as a hectic holiday weekend for teams in the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Soccer Association.

In addition to the 20 games scheduled for Royal Athletic Park in the two-day Minor Soccer Jamboree, four B.C. teams will be played Saturday, winners advancing to the provincial tournament of champions.

Feature of today's first half of the jamboree is a meeting between Victoria United of the Pacific Coast Soccer League and Victoria and District Soccer League all-stars for the Tony Hope Trophy at 2:45.

Complete schedule:

Gary Sniffs Way to First-Round Lead

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Hay fever-sufferer Gary Player making hay in the absence of the other members of golf's "big three," shot a five-under-par 33-34-35 Thursday to lead the first round of the $38,000 Greater Greensboro Open by one shot.

The little South African, who says he's gained five pounds up to 155, used five handicaps, and three pills in addition to 66 strokes as his first hay fever attack in seven months plagued him throughout the round.

Player was one stroke ahead of Lionel Hebert, the former U.S. PGA champion who has been having a lean year. Hebert shot 34-33-37 for second place. Ideal weather produced a bumper crop of sub-par scores and a hole-in-one by negro professional Pete Brown, who shot 72.

Plans Scotch Bargain—A $420 Golf Holiday

LONDON (UPI)—Douglas Henderson, head of Merton Hotels Ltd., which just signed an agreement to build a multi-million-dollar hotel at Prestwick Airport, Scotland, says he aims to offer Canadian golfers sporting and sight-seeing holidays in Scotland for $420.

He said the new $3,500,000 hotel would have a golf course nearby including an illuminated, all-night range and facilities for non-playing wives and children.

One of the aims behind this building is to bring U.S. and Canadian golfers to Scotland for low cost, inclusive holidays, Henderson said.

"I want to bring golf home to Scotland," he said. "I believe this is the way to do it."

British Tracks Lose Subsidies

LONDON (AP)—Twelve British race tracks, including Lincoln where the flat racing season traditionally opens each spring, may be forced to close under a plan to modernize the sport in England.

The government's betting levy board, which subsidizes the tracks from taxes on bookmakers, has given notice the 12 tracks would get no more subsidies for purses, equipment or improvements after 1964.

Lord Harding, chairman of the board, said he had $400,000 to spend and it would be used for tracks which had proved themselves most successful.

Harding listed 20 tracks qualifying for top priority, while another 30 are under review. Tracks cut off from financial aid are Lincoln, Manchester, Bognor, Folkestone, Leam, Edinburgh, Pontefract, Rothbury, Sedgefield, Stockton, West Norfolk and Wore.

Among the 20 tracks receiving top priority are Epsom, site of the Derby since 1780; Newmarket, traditional home of the 1,000 Guineas and 2,000 Guineas classics; and Ascot, scene of the season's most fashionable racing.

Russell will also show the outstanding wildlife film called "Are Wild Animals Really Wild?"

Garden Notes

Seeds Solve Solvency

By M. V. CHESNUT, FREE

Gardening doesn't have to be an expensive hobby, even when your place cries out for great masses of expensive perennial flowers. Of course, if you happen to own a private gold mine or oil well, it is rather nice to be able to walk into one of our excellent local plant nurseries and order full-grown, ready-to-bloom plants to your heart's content.

But even if your purse is as flat as the anemic Chesnut bankroll, you can stock your garden with first-rate perennials—you can grow them from seed, costing only a few cents per packet. In fact, it is rather fun to grow your own, for the lottery or sweepstakes element as to what your seeds will produce adds excitement to the otherwise sedate pleasures of gardening.

Not all perennial flowers are suitable for home-growing from seed. Some of them take too long to reach maturity—peonies, for instance, will take up to five years before you get your first flowers from your seeds, and not many of us possess that much patience. There are quite a few, though, which will bloom the second year from seed, and some, like the Gloriosa Daisy, which will even give a few blooms the first year from early-started seeds.

Ideally, the seeds should be started in a greenhouse or coldframe, then transplanted to a small nursery bed, perhaps a corner of your vegetable plot, to be grown on through the summer and moved again to their flowering position in the fall. Even without glass, perennial flower seeds can be started in a small sheltered outdoor seed bed, or better still, knock up a simple little extemporized frame out of shallow wooden boxes covered with sheet plastic to sit over the sown seed.

A mixed bag of Red Hot Poker (Kniphofia) in the border commands immediate attention from passers-by. Their colors range from bright searing-red to butter yellow, and are easy and sure from seed. If you can't find these seeds listed in your catalogues under the name Kniphofia, try under Tritoma. The botanists don't seem to be quite sure which is the proper name for this plant.

If you like a splash of really brilliant color in your garden, try a sowing of Lychnis. This fine old plant, nicknamed Scarlet Lightning and Jerusalem Cross, grows about two feet tall with flowering heads 2½ inches across in fire-engine red. A new variety, Lychnis auranti, blooms in a soft rose pink shade and comes true from seed.

An excellent perennial for hot, dry spots in the garden is Gaillardia, sometimes known as Blanket Flower. The Gaillardia hybrids are especially good, blooming in combinations of yellow, orange and crimson shades, and quick and easy from seed. One disadvantage in growing Gaillardias from seed is the considerable variation in height—the plants will range all the way from 12 to 30 inches tall. The Iceland poppy is an unpredictable plant, growing like weeds in one garden and perishing miserably in the next, but if you have been captivated by the names of these stately blossoms growing in Benif and Lake Louise and would like to take a crack at growing them, there are two new Australian kinds which are outstanding. Rinfire is a fiery scarlet with the biggest blossoms I ever saw on an Iceland poppy, while Artist's glory is a blend of soft pastel pinks and salmon.

I don't think anyone ever had enough Pyrethrum in his garden, for these Painted Daisies are in great demand as cut flowers for the house. Seeds listed under the name Robinson's Hybrid Mixed will produce flowers three to four inches across in a wide variation of colors and shades.

I would like to remind all my gardening friends that the annual show of the Vancouver Island Rock and Alpine Garden Society will open this afternoon in Christ Church Cathedral Memorial Hall. Doors will be open from 2 to 10 p.m. today and from 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. tomorrow. It is not generally realized that this is considered the finest show of its kind on the North American continent.

This is a busy weekend for flower shows. In Duncan, the Valley Garden Club will hold its annual spring show tomorrow in the Royal Canadian Legion Hall, Trunk Road, starting at 2 p.m. Also at 2 p.m. tomorrow, residents of Salt Spring Island will be taking in the Ganges spring flower show, and an exceptionally fine exhibition with many unique features is promised.

ART BUCHWALD Solves Problem

How to Get Yourself on TV

WASHINGTON—"So how come," Aunt Molly asked our father the other day at a family reunion, "if Arthur's stationed in Washington we never see him on television at the president's press conference?"

"Maybe," said cousin Milton maliciously, "he isn't allowed to attend the president's press conference. They're not just open to everybody."

Uncle Oscar said, "It's getting very embarrassing. The day after a Kennedy press conference all my friends say to me, 'So where was your big-shot nephew that you're always talking about?' I'm telling you, it's no fun going to work anymore."

Uncle Leo said, "Let's face it. A Joseph Alsop he's not."

It was more than Pop could take and he called us up the next day. "The whole family's disgusted with you," he said. "You've been in Washington six months and they haven't seen you once at a Kennedy press conference."

"Pop," we said, "it's very hard to get on television at a presidential press conference. The only way to do it is to ask a question."

"So ask a question," he said. "It's going to kill you?"

"I never know what to ask the president," we told him.

"Why don't you ask him if he's willing to take a lie detector test?"

"Pop, I can't ask him that. Besides, even if I thought of a good question to ask, the president still might not call on me."

"You see, you have to jump up at a press conference and then the president recognizes you. Sometimes you can jump up and down for 30 minutes and nothing happens."

"Then you have to have a long question so the cameras can focus on you. Before television the questions were very short. But now, in most cases, the questions are longer than the president's answers. It's hard for me to think up a long question."

"Enough excuses," Pop said. "All I know is the family is getting sick and tired of looking for you on TV. Pop said, 'You better do something about it because I can't keep thinking up excuses for you.'"

Pop hung up and we started to stew. It was true, we had let the family down, but we didn't know what to do about it. So we took our problem to Ken Crawford, columnist of Newsweek magazine.

"Don't worry," he said. "I had the same problem too. Family wouldn't talk to me for months, but then I solved it."

"How?" we asked.

"Everytime I go to a press conference, I sit behind someone who is sure to ask a question. In that way when the camera is on him or her, it's also on me. Come on, I'll take you over to the press conference and you can see for yourself."

We went over with him. "There,"

In mid, "We'll sit behind May Craig of the Portland Press. She's sure to ask a question."

We grabbed two seats behind May Craig, who was wearing a nice pink hat.

"Just wait," Mr. Crawford said. "But be ready at any time."

The president's press conference started. Miss Craig jumped up and down as if she were on a puppet string, and sure enough, the president called on her to ask question No. 4, which was: "Mr. President, two weeks ago six Republican members of the Joint Economic Committee—House and Senate—wrote you a long letter of suggestions about federal expenditures including a request that you establish a presidential commission on federal expenditures similar to the Clay Commission on Foreign Aid. What would be your position on that suggestion?"

For 30 seconds, as Miss Craig asked her question, we scratched our ears, waved our hand dismissively, and stared into the camera grinning.

That night we got a call from Pop. "Well," he said happily, "the whole family is talking about you. I'm proud of you, son. I knew you'd come through."

"Don't mention it, Pop. It was just a matter of time."

"There's one thing, though," Pop said. "We all felt that friend of yours, Ken Crawford, was hogging the camera."

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Metro Deal for Randall

HOLLYWOOD—Tony Randall is poised to sign a multiple-deal contract with Metro... and on the schedule is the Elizabeth Taylor-Richard Burton International Hotel. "There are two funny cameo roles," Tony informed me. "I said I'd do one, if Peter Sellers would do the other." I'm sure Peter will manage...

Robert Frostman has been working in Too True to be Good with three broken ribs which he cannot tape because he wears a bikini. One scene calls for Glynn Johns to kick him in the ribs. His groans are for real.

Jerry Lewis denies the implication that he wears false teeth. He uses false teeth sometimes for a gag, but that photograph in a weekly magazine gave the wrong impression.

David Seusskind wants to put the record—not mine—straight. Twas reported that the hitch in showing his Hedda Gabler TV special with Ingrid Bergman was (a) that it was boring, (b) that he was asking too much money. Neither, he insists. "We have a sponsor and will show it in the fall."

With apologies to WW, don't invite Laurence Harvey and Deborah Kerr to the same planet. Oooh, what Charles had to say about Larry whom he starred in Walk on the Wild Side with Capucine whom Larry loathes and Charles loves.

Deborah Kerr is delighted to be back in London with husband Peter Viertel—she is starring in The Chalk Garden, but better yet, she is re-united with her two daughters.

Sir Carol Reed's pretty daughter Tracy was in New York for a day on her way to Florida, to model some clothes for Best Seers, the lad who Marilyn Monroe surprised when she volunteered to pose for him in the altogether—her last photographs.

I must give Jayne Mansfield an "A" for agility. She was in Spain with husband Mickey Hargitay. Then left for Paris to meet Enrico Bomba. Enrico has just produced The Broken Coin with George Sanders, Fedala, and Jacques Sernas. If he doesn't want a broken jaw, maybe he should stay away from Baby Jayne.

Roberto Rossellini has been in the deep dumps since the bad reviews of his part of Alfredo Eli's Rogapag starring Rossana Schellafino. Roberto went so far as to promise that after two more film commitments, he will give up film directing. Meanwhile he gives board and shelter to that Indian lady, Somali Dee Gupla. Perhaps they are married, but I haven't read about it.

Rossana Schellafino was legally separated from her husband, movie producer Marco Vacaric, last week. They have two children. Rossana played Helen in Helen of Troy and had a pretty French maid, a brunette called Brigitte Bardot.

John Johnson Leaves $162,000 to Only Son

An estate of $162,072 was left by John Valdimar Johnson, brother of former premier Byron Johnson and one-time manager of Evans, Coleman and Johnson Brothers Ltd.

Sole beneficiary is John Pranketh Johnson, 3118 Henderson, only son of the deceased.

Mr. Johnson, 73, died March 21. His wife Marian predeceased him several years ago.

Will was probated at Victoria Law Courts Wednesday.

$1,285,000 Bequest

City Hospitals Share in Will

Two Victoria hospitals are among 100 British Columbia hospitals which will share a $1,285,043 bequest by a former lieutenant-governor, Randolph Bruce.

Both Royal Jubilee Hospital and St. Joseph's Hospital plan to use the money to buy needed equipment. Hospital purchases of necessary equipment are matched with the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service paying a third of the cost.

This means both hospitals will be able to buy equipment worth $19,275 with their $12,850 bequests.

At his death in 1942, Mr. Bruce, B.C. Lieutenant-Governor from 1935 to 1951, left his fortune to his widow, with the stipulation that at her death the money would be distributed among the 100 hospitals.

COULD BE COSTLY

The bequests could be costly for the provincial government, an expert said last night.

If all the hospitals receiving the money spend it on buying necessary equipment the provincial government is committed to providing grants totalling $428,347.

But if the money was used for construction the provincial government is committed to matching grants, making its share the same as the original bequest—$1,285,043.

Student Head

University Fee Boost Doubtful

A spokesman for Victoria University Students' Council said last night it was not expected that entrance fees would rise in the face of the provincial government's failure to meet the university's budget with grants.

He was commenting on an announcement that University of British Columbia fees might rise because government grants did not meet that university's budgeted requirements.

CLEARHUE MUM

Judge J. B. Clearhue, chancellor of Victoria University, declined to comment on the possibility of fee increases in Victoria.

Members of Victoria students' council joined with UBC students several weeks ago in a march on the legislature and circulation of a public petition, asking the provincial government to give more money to both institutions.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson said modification of fees and admissions is at the sole discretion of a university.

PROVISION FOR FUNDS

"There is provision in the new Universities Act which becomes effective July 1 for the lieutenant-governor-in-council (provincial cabinet) to provide such funds as may be required from consolidated revenue," he said.

"I am not in a position at this time to anticipate or predict what action might be taken when the provision comes into force."

Arboretum Meeting Set Here

Annual meeting of the Arboretum Society of the Pacific Northwest will be held Wednesday evening at Victoria University, Lansdowne campus.

A report on the society's five-year project at Playfair Park, the Frank M. Ross Rhododendron and Azalea Garden, will be given at the meeting. The project is near completion, with 800 plants established and 300 cuttings rooted, and the society now is planning a national arboretum on the Saanich peninsula.

Dr. T. M. C. Taylor, of the University of B.C., will lecture on Arboretum and Botanical Gardens of Europe. The meeting, open to the public, will begin at 8 p.m. in Room 106 of the Paul Building.

Saanich Boy Going to U.S.

Saanichton 4-H club member John Stanlake has been chosen to represent British Columbia in the National 4-H conference in Washington, D.C., April 20-28.

The 15-year-old boy was chosen from hundreds of 4-H members throughout the province.

He will arrive in Ottawa April 17, continuing to New York for a two-day stay before flying to the National 4-H Club Centre in Washington. He returns to Montreal April 27 and will fly direct to Vancouver.

Easter Services

Sunrise Rites at Park

Protestant and Roman Catholic churches throughout the Greater Victoria area are preparing for colorful services Good Friday and Easter.

Thousands of Victorians are expected to flock to Beacon Hill Park for the 7:45 a.m. Easter sunrise service Sunday.

Rev. Robert Holmes of Central Baptist Church will give an Easter message at the service, to be held in the park's northwest corner.

Salvation Army band under William Hastings will play and singing will be led by Maj. John Morrison. People in cars can enjoy the service by listening to the public address system.

Musical highlight of Anglican Christ Church Cathedral's two Easter Sunday services will be trumpet and organ music performed from the cathedral's west gallery from 10:30 to 11 a.m. and for 10 minutes preceding the 7:30 p.m. service.

Dean Brian Whitlow will conduct the 11 a.m. Holy Eucharist service, and a boy's choir will sing an Easter motet.

A festive evensong will be sung at 7:30 p.m., with Rev. R. A. Hoult conducting the service.

The evensong will be broadcast in its entirety by a local radio station.

Main Easter mass will be sung at midnight Saturday in St. Andrew's Cathedral, conducted by Roman Catholic Bishop Renal de Ros.

It will be preceded at 10:30 p.m. by Easter Vigil, greatest and most solemn celebration of the church year.

Vigil Planned

"The Easter Vigil is a long service celebrated by the early Christians," said Rev. William Hill. "It contains a great deal of symbolism—the lighting of the new fire and the singing of psalms, among others."

In the middle of the litany of the saints there will be the blessing of the water used at baptisms throughout the year and the renewing of the baptismal vows by the entire congregation, Father Hill said.

Good Friday will see a liturgical service at 3 p.m., the reading of the passion and the adoration of the cross. Father Hill said, "If everything goes well, we will have the cross which is being carried here from Nazareth in a pilgrimage."

An Easter estate, Christ Victorians, will be presented by the Victoria Choral Society in the Evangelical Temple, Queen and Blanshard, at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

A one-hour Good Friday service will be conducted by Very Rev. Dr. J. L. W. McLean in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church at 11 a.m. today.

The Walther League of the Hope Lutheran Church congregation will serve an Easter breakfast following the 8 a.m. service at the church Easter morning.

First United Church choir will present an evening of music at the church Sunday evening. The program will include selections from Handel's Messiah. Guest soloists will be Alice Waddell and Paul Wharf.

The King's Minstrels, nationally known evangelists, will conduct a children's crusade using a variety of musical instruments and puppets at 7 p.m. each evening during Easter week at Glad Tidings Tabernacle, 842 North Park.

Zoning Problem

Council Studies
Hospital Rules

By IAN STREET

Establishment of a new set of regulations covering private hospitals in residential districts is being considered by city council.

This possibility emerged yesterday after council discovered it actually has little power to control development of a proposed private hospital scheme in the Fairfield Road-Chandler Avenue area.

Mayor R. B. Wilson pointed out that application for rezoning of the three-acre property in question was granted by council Tuesday with no strings attached.

The majority of nearby property owners, who strongly opposed the rezoning from single-family zone to grounds that it was a commercial venture, are now resigned to the project in their midst, the mayor said.

He added: "Their only concern now is that the scheme should be completed as set out in the sketches and plans shown to council by the developers."

Ald. Millard Mooney, who throughout has fought hard against the rezoning, said the mayor should exercise his power of veto to delay action on the application for 30 days. This would allow time for adequate safeguards to be devised.

He was accused by Ald. J. L. W. McLean of "trying to undo what has already been done."

"UNDUE HASTE" Mayor Wilson said it appeared council had acted with "undue haste" in granting the rezoning without giving consideration to proper safeguards.

City solicitor T. P. O'Grady advised that council "cannot bargain away its zoning powers." He said it was able, however, to phrase regulations that applicants would be forced to follow their original schemes.

He added: "I expect this scheme will go ahead and probably be completed as planned." Mayor Wilson said, "But we still have the responsibility of protecting people who live in the area surrounding the proposed hospital development."

Council decided finally to wait a report from the solicitor and city engineer James Garnett detailing what steps should be taken to ensure the scheme is carried out.

Entrants in the Swiftsure race will follow the same 136-mile course they have been sailing for 30 years or more.

The Swiftsure lightship, which gave the race its name, has been removed, but a Pacific Command frigate, HMCS Beacon Hill, will take up its former position for the race.

The U.S. Coast guard will provide a mark boat in Clallam Bay for the Juan de Fuca Trophy race, which is in its second year.

Swiftsure race will start at Brochle Ledge. To eliminate crowding, the starting line will stretch from an anchor to the frigate HMCS Ste. Therese which will adjust her position on an arc depending on the direction of the wind.

RVYC member Humphrey Goby said there would "probably be about 70 entrants" for the Swiftsure and "probably as high as 10" for the "C" class Juan de Fuca Trophy race.

This would involve creation of special regulations for all private hospitals located in residential districts. Mr. O'Grady said, and require careful consideration by planners.

Ald. Lily Wilson told council that she knew of two cases in which applicants had obtained rezoning "for a particular purpose" only to later sell the property without carrying out their schemes.

"That is not right," Mrs. Wilson said. "Can we not ask the developers of this private hospital scheme for a performance bond. I understand they are willing to put up a bond."

Mr. O'Grady said such a bond under existing conditions would be worthless.

"I expect this scheme will go ahead and probably be completed as planned," Mayor Wilson said, "But we still have the responsibility of protecting people who live in the area surrounding the proposed hospital development."

Development Project

Topaz Park Given Support

Prospect of developing Topaz Park in preference to Royal Athletic Park for major sport-ing events received considerable support from city council yesterday.

Ald. Austin Curtis broached the subject when he expressed surprise that the parks committee should recommend adoption of a $331,000 re-development program for Royal Athletic Park as a joint centennial project in 1967.

"As long as I've been on council there has been general agreement that Topaz Park should be developed as an enclosed park in preference to Royal Athletic Park," he said.

One of the difficulties connected with sports events in Victoria, Ald. Curtis said, is that summer evenings are often "pretty chilly." He said this is probably a major reason why the city has lost its professional baseball team.

TOPAZ WARNING "All tests carried out to date have shown Topaz Park, because of its sheltered location, is several degrees warmer in the evening than Royal Athletic Park," he said. "This could prove a great boost to attendance at night events."

Parks chairman Ald. Millard Mooney told council that plans for development of Topaz Park haven't been abandoned.

ENCLOSED PARK "If it wants, council can request development of another enclosed park at Topaz," he said. "But we should leave Royal Athletic Park as it is even if we decide to put expensive new lighting and facilities at Topaz."

Ald. Mooney said his committee recommended the Royal Athletic Park development because it appeared likely to enlist the support of surrounding municipalities.

ON BORDER "Surely Topaz Park would get even stronger support from Saanich," Mayor R. B. Wilson said. "It's practically on the border." The mayor added that the Royal Athletic Park scheme should only receive consideration as one of a number of suggested centennial projects.

Ald. J. L. W. McLean suggested that alternative proposals for development of both parks should be placed before council for its consideration as soon as possible. Council agreed this was the best course to follow.

Reserve Fund May Help
Keep Mill Rate Level

Oak Bay council will meet in camera Tuesday night in an attempt to chop $157,500—4½ mills—from its budget in an attempt to equal last year's tax rate of 40½ mills.

"There is a possibility that we can use some of our reserve fund to keep the mill rate down without sacrificing essential works," Rosva George Murdoch said last night.

TIGHT BUDGET "We have $104,000 in the fund and we might be able to use half of that. The budget was tightly made up by all departments in the first place and there is little we can easily chop."

Oak Bay this year is facing essential works which can no longer be delayed in the name of "chopping the budget to last year's level," Rosva Murdoch said.

"For instance, surface drain outfalls at Willow Beach have to be extended into very deep water. It was put off in 1961 and again in 1962 and we have to get it done."

"That sort of thing is the result of cutting back each year to keep the mill rate down. Now costs of materials and everything are so much higher."

"This business of chopping taxes like that is a false economy."

CUT TAXES LAST YEAR Oak Bay last year was the only municipality in Greater Victoria to reduce its taxes—by half a mill. Tuesday night's meeting will be the first of at least three similar budget meetings.

"We are hoping we can keep it down to last year's level but I won't guarantee it. We will do our best."

HMCS Sussexvale, New Glasgow and Stettler were on anti-submarine exercises with the submarine HMCS Grilse when they were diverted.

The Laws and Colahan were on an operational exercise out of California ports with nearly 400 officers and men of the U.S. naval reserve.

The RCN Pacific Command's announcement said the delay was due to "the continuation of exercises now being conducted with U.S. naval units of the Pacific."

Ships Delayed by Sub?

Reports of an unidentified submarine in Pacific coastal waters may be responsible for delaying the return of four frigates of the Fourth Canadian Escort Squadron and the arrival of two visiting U.S. destroyers.

However, naval policy does not permit release of sightings reports.

An official RCN source said the changes in the frigates' program could result in "delays in arrival times of up to 48 hours," then later announced they would dock at 1:30 p.m. today.

DUE THURSDAY The frigates Ste. Therese, Sussexvale, New Glasgow and Stettler were to have berthed at dockyard Thursday afternoon.

The U.S. Fletcher-class destroyer Laws and Colahan were to have reached HMC Dockyard at noon Thursday. They will now berth at HMC Dockyard today at 11 a.m.

Broadcasting from Vatican Part-Time Job for Irish Girl

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mark up another first for a woman in a world traditionally masculine.

Ellish Johnston, a blue-eyed blonde colleen from Dublin, is the first woman to become a regular newscaster on the Vatican radio in Rome.

She said the idea of varying the voices of the station for the Vatican came from Jesuit Father Thomas O'Donnell, himself an Irishman, who heads the station's English language department.

FIRST TIME:

"I don't know what he had to go through to get a woman's voice on the air," she said in an interview. "Maybe it was just the first time anyone had thought of it."

Miss Johnston, in New York on a business trip, explained that the radio job is a part time one for which she is paid. Her regular job is as a sales representative in Rome for Irish International Airlines. She has been with the airline in Italy since 1958, and doing the Vatican broadcasts since last August.

THREE A WEEK

She is on the air three times a week for 14 minutes each—doing an English language broadcast beamed to Europe, Africa, and the Middle East, and re-broadcast for Australia and New Zealand.

She has nothing to do with the content of scripts, but does the translation from Italian into English of what a news staff already has prepared. Other newscasters work the same way, she said, and in all some 30 languages are broadcast.

ALL NEWS

Miss Johnston said she is strictly a voice to her listeners—there is no personal identification of the announcer. And no commercials. Content of the programs include news in Vatican City, of the Christian world, and general news, she said.

The 30-year-old broadcaster is one of five children, she said, daughter of an Irish civil servant now retired and living at Dunloughmore, not far from Dublin. Two brothers work in West Africa, one of them as a newsmen in Beirut. Her only sister is married and lives in Dublin.

LANGUAGE STUDENT

Miss Johnston is a graduate of Dominican College, Dublin, and has studied languages in Naples, Paris and Rome. She speaks English without a brogue. "You'll rarely hear a brogue in Dublin," she said. "It's said that the purest English is spoken there."

In Rome, she shares an apartment with a school teacher, a native Italian, who's an expert at making pasta and all the sauces. "I just let her cook and I enjoy the results," said Miss Johnston.

TEMPERAMENTS

"Actually, the Irish and the Italians have a lot in common,"

she said. "Basically the same temperaments. Sad and melancholy one minute, on the top of the world the next."

"I often think Ireland should be on the Mediterranean. What are they doing up there in the cold?"

Luscious Chocolates Fill Easter Baskets

By JILL ARLETT

"What are you going to write about today?" asked the teller at the bank.

"I don't know yet," I replied dubiously. "Something about Easter I guess."

She counted my cash, stamped a cheque and leaned over the wicket.

"Know what I'd write about?" she asked. "These Easter eggs I saw downtown yesterday. You've never seen anything like it."

She wrote down the name of the shop and handed it to me with my bank book.

The long line behind me heaved a great sigh and decided it would be more profitable to wait at another wicket.

And she's right, too. You've never seen anything like it. What impressed me most about the display of Easter goodies in this store was their originality. No two gifts were exactly alike.

Arrangements are all done by the manager's wife, and they include baskets of eggs, an egg cup and egg (18c and 25c), a house china cookie jar filled with candy ($3.25) and china mugs (68c).

Great fillers, if you're arranging your own Easter basket, are these baby chocolate eggs, beautifully wrapped in colored foil paper at just 2 cents each.

Most of the eggs this year are filled—either with a cream or marshmallow filling, or with tiny toys—and seem to me to be a great improvement over the usually disappointing hollow Easter egg.

For example there is a very popular variety of eggs from England, priced at two for 45 cents and filled with white cream and a yellow yolk centre.

For the adults expecting a visit from the Easter Bunny on Sunday there are "Easter eggs" at four for 48c, and filled with red wine, orange bitters or apricot brandy.

In the line of giant sized eggs, the prices are very reasonable. For example, a half pound egg with extra thick shell of milk chocolate is $1.25 and comes wrapped in gold foil with a big red ribbon.

Large family decorated eggs are just 75 cents and $1.25.

Some of the real bargains are solid pure milk chocolate eggs at the for about 1 1/2 dozen, pastel colored eggs at just 5 cents each (you eat the shell and find a toy inside) and cardboard rockets filled with candy for 30 cents.

Trying to get a sneak preview of what's in store for him this Sunday is four-year-old Vincent Beaurivage, 1816 Townley. Vincent was nudging his furry friend to give him the inside story, but Rab staunchly refused to co-operate.—(Bud Kinsman)

The real connoisseur of chocolates is sure to snack his lips after tasting one of the Dutch Droste Easter eggs, which are selling at 55 cents a bag. Eggs are filled with assorted creams.

And for the real gourmet who just can't get enough to eat at Easter time, a sturdy sand pail filled with different kinds of candy is just the thing. Sand buckets are priced at $1.39.

If you would like to know the name of the store the bank teller handed me over the wicket, call EV 3-4111. Incidentally this store will be open all day today until 6 p.m. and Saturday until midnight.

PARIS (Reuters) — The film Lawrence of Arabia now showing in Paris has launched two new fashions, advertised in newspapers.

The "sheik look" is a new makeup involving dark-rimmed eyes, golden foundations to give a bronzed look and lipstick in "mysterious pink."

The "sand style" is a woman's outfit including a military appearing leather-belted tunic with breast pockets, with a handbag looking like a dispatch case at the end of a Sam Browne belt, and a hat similar to a pith helmet.

Arlene Conconi Weds G. Hughes

Centennial United Church was the scene last evening of a ceremony that united Arlene Solveig Conconi and Mr. Gilbert Weston Hughes. Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Conconi, Tanner Road and Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Hughes, Saanich Road. Rev. S. J. Parsons officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride, who was given away by her father, chose a full-length gown of white nylon sheer over tulle. The bouffant skirt was puffed over a hoop and the neckline featured a shawl collar. The front bodice featured a V shaped lace insert. The sleeves ended in lily points. She carried a cascade of white carnations and red roses. Her veil of French tulle was held by a crown of simulated pearls.

Leaving on a honeymoon, to the mainland, the new Mrs. Hughes changed to a romance pink suit with matching hat and black patent shoes and purse. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes will make their home at 839 Selkirk Avenue.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. K. Pederson and family, Port Alberni, Mr. and Mrs. F. Grant, Vancouver, Staff Sgt. and Mrs. E. Sarsiat, Miss Dawn Sarsiat, Nanaimo.

Red roses decorated the head table at the reception held in the Carlton Club. Rosebuds and silver leaves were on the three-tiered cake.

Miss Marlene Kostenuk, maid of honor, Mrs. W. Morrison, matron of honor and bridesmaid, Miss Donna Conconi, the bride's cousin, were dressed alike in coral nylon over taffeta. The dresses featured scoop necklines and belted skirts. Their accessories were white as were the floral whirls. They carried coral and white carnations.

Little Margaret and Cathy Goodman were flower girls.

Film Sets New Styles

PARIS (Reuters) — The film Lawrence of Arabia now showing in Paris has launched two new fashions, advertised in newspapers.

The "sheik look" is a new makeup involving dark-rimmed eyes, golden foundations to give a bronzed look and lipstick in "mysterious pink."

The "sand style" is a woman's outfit including a military appearing leather-belted tunic with breast pockets, with a handbag looking like a dispatch case at the end of a Sam Browne belt, and a hat similar to a pith helmet.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a mother who does not agree with your position on going steady.

My daughter is 13 years old and in the seventh grade. She is going steady with a very nice boy of 14 and I am delighted. Last year when she didn't have a steady boy friend she was a terribly unhappy girl. She was always worried to death she

Railway Strike Likelier

By BOB CURRIE

LONDON (CP)—The threat of a three-day national rail strike sharpened Thursday as a union-governed plan that threatens the jobs of between 75,000 and 100,000 British railway workers.

"A strike looks inevitable," said Sidney Greene, chief of the National Union of Railwaymen, after a meeting with his 24-man executive council.

Apparently the unions would give British railways as little notice as possible. No date was announced but speculation is that the strike that would paralyze railways for almost a week would start at midnight May 6.

Several other smaller rail unions have indicated they would support "industrial action" but the 85,000 "white collar" members of the transport salaries association have said they will not support a strike.

Greene said the question of whether employees of London's subway trains would be involved "is still under consideration."

Show Rise

OTTAWA (CP)—The number of unemployment insurance claimants at the end of February increased to 720,300 from 708,100 a month earlier and 718,700 a year earlier, the bureau of statistics reported Thursday.

Some 55 per cent of the claimants had been for continuous periods of between four and 13 weeks.

Union Chiefs Miss

OTTAWA (CP)—Three top officials of American maritime unions who had agreed to give evidence to the Norris royal commission on Great Lakes labor strife failed to turn up Thursday at a special hearing called for their benefit.

Mr. Justice T. G. Norris, head of the one-man inquiry, had invited the three American trade union leaders to appear before him.

The three are Paul Hall, president of the Seafarers' International Union of North America; E. N. Altman, executive vice-president of the American Maritime Association, and Capt.

William V. Bradley, president of the Longshoremen's Association International. After the three failed to appear, Mr. Justice Norris announced that no further commission hearings were expected to be held.

LONDON, Ont. — Quebec Premier Jean Lesage and Senator M. Wallace McCutcheon will be among those honored at the spring convocation of the University of Western Ontario, it was announced here.

Water Safety School Starts Here April 21

A water safety instructor school will be held in the Crystal Garden pool and Red Cross House, 1046 Fort Street, beginning April 21.

In order to qualify, candidates must be senior Red Cross swimmers and have Royal Life Saving Society bronze award or equivalent. Classes will be held all day Sundays and Tuesday nights.

'I Screamed, I Clawed'

Trapped alone for nine hours in self-service elevator in nearly deserted office building in San Francisco, receptionist Linda Roemer, 22, freely admits "I panicked. I screamed. I clawed at the door." Then she quieted down until at 1:50 a.m. she heard a trash collector and shouted for help. He called police, they called firemen with crowbars.

$500 Award Offered

B.C. Citizens Asked to Name New PNE Livestock Building

The people of B.C. will decide the name of a new $1,040,000 livestock show building at the Pacific National Exhibition in Vancouver.

Prize for the winning name will be $500. The new building has already become the centre of architectural curiosity at though its doors will not officially open until Aug. 17, the first day of the exhibition. It has been the cover story of scores of trade journals across Canada, and featured in Swedish and Estonian papers.

The 50,000-square foot structure has a dome-shaped roof which its designers claim is the lightest steel and membrane roof of its size in the world. It was primarily designed for agricultural shows but will operate throughout the year as a multi-purpose show building. There are 3,200 permanent theatre-type seats.

For stage productions an additional 2,800 seats can be added.

First contract for the building, other than agricultural shows, will bring the Moscow State Circus to Vancouver on Christmas Day.

The contest is open to anyone in B.C. and closes May 31.

Courtroom Parade

Woman Bandit Gets 18 Months

A woman who robbed a downtown grocery store of $125.32 by pretending to have a gun and shouting she "would shoot everybody in the store" was sentenced in city magistrate's court yesterday to 18 months in Oakalla.

Jessie Ellen Taylor, no fixed address, was arrested half an hour after Quincey's Fruit Store, 1638 Government, was robbed at 1:20 a.m. April 3. She pleaded guilty when she appeared in court later the same day.

Before sentence was passed yesterday the accused told Magistrate William Ocker that she didn't have a gun and she "didn't remember anything."

"The offense is an extremely serious one," Magistrate Ocker said. "Although alcohol was a contributing factor, it was not an excuse."

"The real problem I have had is whether or not you should go to the penitentiary for what you have done," he said.

On hearing her sentence the accused burst into tears and was led from the courtroom.

*** Larry Deane Archer, 1704 Knight, pleaded guilty to breaking and entering and theft at the Independent Order of Foresters, 2615 Quadra, last Friday.

Archer was one of three men who drove up in front of the 1077 Hall at 10:45 p.m. broke a window, reached in and unlocked the door and then drove off with a small safe.

The safe, which contained $25, has not been found. Neither have Archer's companions.

An eyewitness to the break-in jotted down the license number of the car and notified police. City detectives arrested Archer shortly after.

He was remanded to Wednesday for probation report and sentence.

B.C. to Seek Tourists On Prairies

Representatives of the B.C. tourist industry will make a goodwill tour through the prairie provinces early in May. Recreation and Conservation Minister Earle Westwood announced yesterday.

Theme of the tour will be "Know Your Western Neighbor." Its purpose, Mr. Westwood said, will be to show prairie dwellers the ease with which they can visit B.C. via Rogers Pass and other routes.

The tour will be divided into two sections—one travelling through Alberta by bus and the other by air through Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Both tours leave Vancouver May 5 and return on the following Saturday. Presentations will be made to mayors of prairie towns, slides will be shown and speaking engagements are being arranged.

Despite Dry Forecast

Water Lack Unlikely

A long, hot and dry summer has been forecast for Vancouver Island, but Greater Victoria water taps will not dry up.

Drinking water for the 150,000 area residents comes from two reservoirs — Sooke Lake and five smaller lakes in the Goldstream area—and they are well filled, says Greater Victoria Water District commissioner Ronald Upward.

SUFFICIENT RAINFALL

"We've had our 36 inches of rainfall in the last three months of 1962, and that is sufficient."

For the rest of Vancouver Island, the story may be different. The provincial water resources service reports below average snowpacks which means lighter spring runoffs and less water.

BELOW AVERAGE

Snowmelt inflow to Cowichan Lake is not expected to reach average marks, the service says.

On the Forbidden Plateau near Courtenay the water content of the snowpack is 44.6 inches, 67 per cent of the nine-year average.

However, heavy rains this spring could alter the situation well toward the comfortable side, but meteorologists do not foresee a wet spring or early summer.

Overall, the water reservoir measurements are similar to those of last year.

W. H. Mulligan Named As Warden of Oakalla

Attorney-General Robert Bonner announced yesterday that Prince George jail warden Warren H. Mulligan has been made warden of Oakalla, replacing Hugh Christie.

Mr. Mulligan, 42, grew up in the Fraser Valley and joined the provincial jail service in 1949 after seven years of wartime and peacetime service in the Royal Canadian Navy.

His appointment takes effect May 1. Mr. Christie resigned from the Oakalla post to take up a federal government appointment.

Margaret Clay Remains On Library Commission

Chief Librarian of the Victoria Public Library for 28 years, Miss Margaret J. Clay had been reappointed to the Public Library Commission for a three-year term.

Miss Clay previously served on the commission for several years and was chairman in 1958-59.

AIDS DEVELOPMENT

The commission is formed under provisions of the Public Libraries Act to encourage and promote public library development in co-operation with other public bodies in B.C., and provide service for those who do not have access to a public library. It is under the jurisdiction of the provincial secretary.

Miss Clay began her career as children's librarian at Victoria Public and took over from Dr. Helen Gordon as chief librarian. She retired in 1962.

Demolition Ordered

City council yesterday ordered demolition of a city-owned building at 1024 Caladonia Avenue. The occupants will be given 30 days' notice to vacate the apartment-store, and tenders called for the removal of the structure.

Smiling Godfrey Approaching 60

BIG GEORGE! By Virgil Partch

"DON'T LOOK, GEORGE! You might weaken and fall off your diet!"

George Black 90

He Rescued Private Diefenbaker

VANCOUVER (CP) — George Black, soldier, parliamentarian, adventurer and a man who has had a hand in the destinies of two prime ministers, celebrated his 90th birthday Wednesday.

It was as Capt. Black of the Yukon Volunteers in 1917 that he went into no-man's-land in France and led home a lost Saskatchewan private named John Diefenbaker.

And it was as Mr. Speaker in the House of Commons in 1935 that he overruled another prime minister and helped bring down the R. B. Bennett government.

"It's been a good life, yes, and a long and happy one," he said. His secret? He agrees with the nutritionist who advocated Scotch whisky, salad and sex for a long life.

"I'm much the same," Mr. Black said. "Except I don't like salad."

LONG FRIENDSHIP
The friendship he struck up with Pte. Diefenbaker in France endured through more than a quarter of a century. MP for the Yukon. He held the seat for the Conservative party almost continuously from 1921 until he was defeated in 1949 and quit politics at 78.

One of the first greetings to arrive for his 90th birthday was from Mr. Diefenbaker, sent during the upheaval of a hectic election.

AMONG FIRST
Mr. Black's first wife, Martha, was among Canada's first women MPs and held her husband's Yukon constituency during the late 1830s when he was ill. She died in 1957 at 81.

The following year he married Sadie King, a widow who was the sister of the late Mickey O'Rourke, VC.

Mr. Black's life story is one filled with adventure.

LAW OFFICE
He rushed over the Chilcot Pass in 1906 and arrived in Dawson City with $5 which he spent to have the sign painted for his law office. Seven men set out with him for the Klondike, but only four reached the Yukon alive.

From this beginning, George Black went on to become a leading territorial lawyer, governor of the Yukon and MP for the Yukon. When he campaigned, he had to trudge up to 150 miles on snowshoes.

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Arthur Godfrey will be 60 on his next birthday, Aug. 31.

He made his broadcasting debut at almost the precise moment the stock market broke to start the Great Depression in 1929 and has been gainfully employed in front of microphones and/or cameras ever since.

He has made it known that when, in the midst of the last U.S. presidential campaign, a polling organization showed some pictures to a sample of the public, he was identified by 91 per cent — compared with 85 per cent for vice-president Richard Nixon and 71 per cent for John F. Kennedy.

He has accumulated a fortune — large enough to permit him to fly two airplanes, drive around New York in a chauffeur-piloted Bentley, maintain a handsome estate in the hunting-shooting country Virginia and live in an east side Manhattan apartment. He breeds quarter horses as a hobby and trains Palomino horses for dressage exhibitions — neither activities within the financial reach of the average well-heeled executive.

He has a popular network radio program — which keeps him busy four days a week, but leaves him free for long weekends and even globetrotting when he feels like taping up a batch of shows in advance. Sounds like an idyllic existence.

But Arthur Godfrey has one burning ambition: A weekly television series.

"I love this business," explained the star. "I'd love to do a show. I'd like to perform a bit—I've always been the introducer, the smiling Ed Sullivan."

Godfrey looks much younger than the mournful evidence of the calendar. His thick hair is a burnished shade of auburn, his walk is lithe and vigorous despite a slight hesitation caused by a surgically repaired hip. He is slim. His zest for life is undisguised.

He looks in the prime of life—a man who obviously has mellowed in the last 10 years, which have not been kind.

He has had a hip operation and almost four years ago underwent surgery for removal of a cancer in the lung.

"Maybe I'm too fond of platitudes," Godfrey says today. "But I feel that you only get as much out of life as you put into it. You had nothing to do with your birth, and you can't control the circumstances of your death. But you can do something about living. And the only way you can make the most of that precious time is to grow."

The secret of longevity as a performer, Godfrey feels, is the same. "If you want to last, you have to grow. That little screen is merciless and if you aren't constantly more interesting and intriguing, they—the public—will drop you, ruthlessly."

World Tour Proposed In Old Army Vehicle

PETERBOROUGH, England (CP)—Paul Greening, 31-year-old mining company engineer who was educated in Vancouver, plans to begin an adventurous round - the - world trip shortly with an English companion.

Greening and Michael Webster, 22, laid plans for the 30,000-mile journey — using an army personnel carrier — while attending a diesel engine school here.

The nine-year-old truck has special springs and a completely refitted interior for the trip in which Greening and Webster plan first to drive through Europe to the Middle East and then navigate Asia to Hong Kong via India.

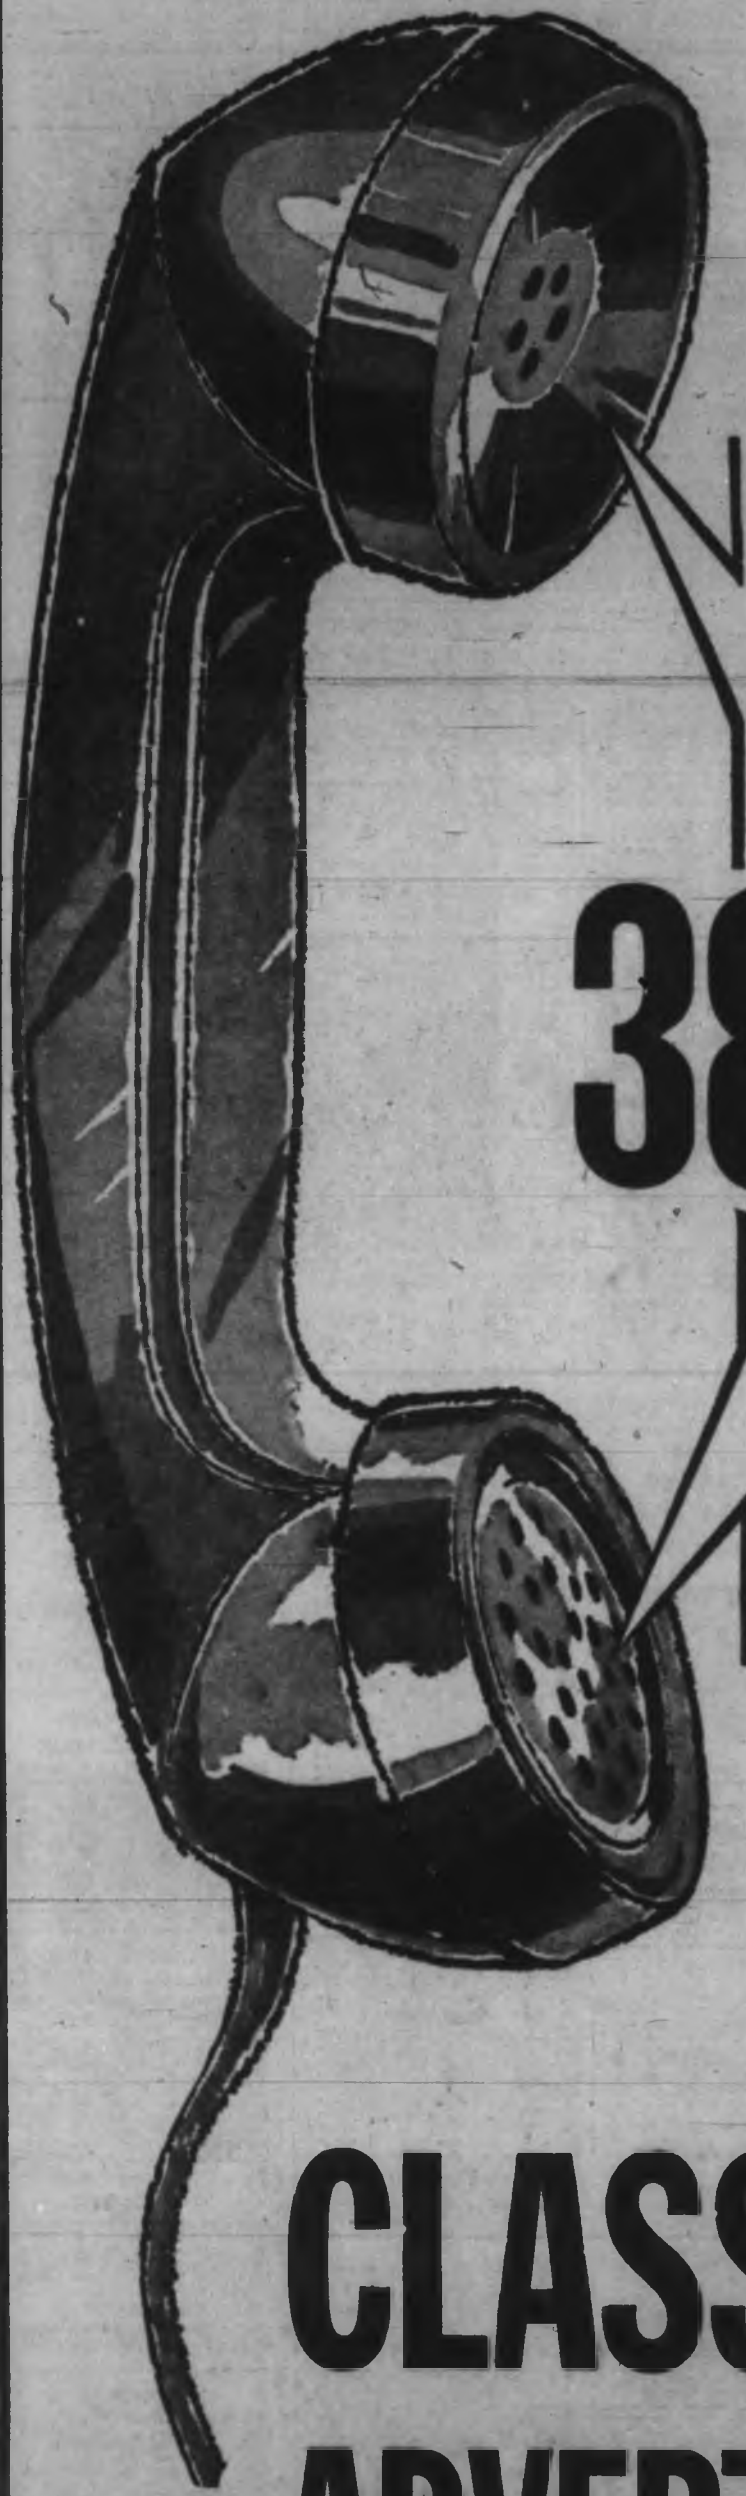

They intend to "work their passage," taking jobs at various places to earn money and also obtaining marketing information for several British firms. They plan to sail across the Pacific from California and drive through South America to the United States.

Bonn Tells Moscow:

No More Pipe For Red Army

BONN (UPI)—West Germany bluntly told Russia Thursday it banned the sale of steel piping to the Soviet Union because it would be used to supply fuel to Russian forces in East Germany in the event of war.

The note was handed to Soviet Ambassador to Bonn Andrei Smirnov by foreign ministry state secretary Rolf Lahr and published afterwards by the federal press office. It answered a Soviet note of April 6 which protested Bonn's embargo on the sale of large steel piping to Moscow.

Three Ruhr steel firms agreed last October to make 150,000 tons of steel tube for Moscow from Soviet iron ore. The Bonn note yesterday said the West German government formerly permitted such deals, although they are not included in the West German-Soviet trade treaty.

Only when it (the government) saw that this business grew to such a proportion that it threatened its own security did it refuse to issue further permits in agreement with the position of its allies," the note said.

The question played no part as to whether this government position was acceptable or not for the all industry in other countries," it said.

Far more decisive was the fact that more than 20 Soviet divisions are based on German territory and the supplying of these strongly-motivated units in the event of war is one of the main goals of the development of the Soviet pipeline network.

This is not a "cold war" invention but is based on statements made by Marshal of the Soviet Union Vasily Sokolovskiy in 1952, the note said.

Bonn quoted the marshal as saying, "Pipelines in the event of war will play a large role in the movement of fuel."

Will Death Sub Be Deadly?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Scientists differed somewhat Thursday about the threat of radioactivity from the sunken nuclear submarine Thresher. But opinions were weighted heavily on the side of optimism.

They ranged from estimates of "no danger now or ever" to a qualified prediction that some years from now there might be enough radioactivity released to have some effect on marine life.

All these commenting agreed there has been and will be no nuclear explosion in the missing submarine. The worst that is foreseen is slow leakage of radioactive materials from the Thresher's atomic power plant. The 8,600-foot depth of the presumed sinking is seen as the chief safety factor.

Those commenting in interviews and their opinions included: Vice Admiral Hyman G. Rickover, often called "the father of the atomic submarine": "I can assure you there is no radioactive hazard as a result of this unfortunate accident."

Dr. Joseph Liberman, a top nuclear-safety expert employed by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission: "Under the worst conceivable conditions of radiation release, natural dilution and dispersion by ocean currents would prevent creation of any significant hazard."

Dr. Bostwick Ketchum, a biologist and oceanographer: "He expressed belief there will be radiation release that will constitute some limited hazard. He put it this way: '(It) seems certain that there will be high-level radioactivity added to the ocean in that area. I would not

Gambling Trial Put on Ice

NENANA, Alaska (AP)—Trial of two resort owners accused of allowing gambling in their lodge was postponed Thursday because most everyone in town is busy compiling the book on the annual pool to pick the time the ice will break up in the Tanana River. In fact, they're compiling it in the building to be used for the courtroom.

The trial will be resumed after the ice breaks.

Even as U.S. Navy searched for missing nuclear submarine Thresher, services for other submariners who have died in service were being conducted at Philadelphia Navy Yard.

'Punch on the Nose'

MLA CHARGES INTIMIDATION

By TERRY HAMMOND

A Social Credit member of the highways probe yesterday asked chairman Irvine Corbett (SC—Yale) to consider contempt proceedings against an NDP MLA for "deliberate intimidation."

Dan Campbell (SC—Comox) accused Gordon Dowding (NDP—Burnaby) of threatening to punch his nose and to sue him for remarks made during the hearings.

EVOKES LAUGHTER

His charge evoked laughter among opposition members of the 13-man committee and even Mr. Corbett smiled when he said he would take the matter under advisement.

Health Minister Eric Martin grinned broadly as he admonished opposition members, "It's no laughing matter."

Mr. Dowding, who has been unofficial legal adviser to NDP members on the investigating committee, jumped up at the conclusion of Mr. Campbell's statement.

He said that "on March 28 as a result of comments made by me to be found on Page 1708, Volume 20, of the transcript, Mr. Gordon Dowding, NDP member of the legislature for Burnaby, said, 'If you don't quit bringing up my name in this case I will punch you on the nose.'"

He dismissed the threat at the time, he added, attributing it to "ill manners, ill-temper or both."

Mr. Campbell made his charge just as the committee resumed its public hearings after a noon adjournment.

Cowichan Herds Complete Records

DUNCAN — A total of 31 records in the Cowichan Dairy Herd Improvement Association were completed recently, according to the association's inspector, Jack Wolf. The records include 20 Holstein, six Jersey, four Guernsey and one Crossbred.

Winners of sacks of feed were: N. D. Quist with six-year-old Holstein, Quist Floss Ho, 17,819 pounds of milk and 700 pounds of butterfat in 305 days; Joe Pail with two-year-old Jersey, Judy, 8,785 pounds of milk and 442 pounds of butterfat in 305 days; and Albert Baumgart, high herd average with 1,540 pounds of milk and 63.1 pounds of butterfat.

Parents of pupils attending Mount Benson Elementary school five miles north of here, have been pressing for an overpass at the crossing ever since a six-year-old boy was killed there early this year when hit by a truck.

NANAIMO — There are still big gaps in meat inspection in Canada, according to Dr. A. Kidd, chief veterinarian of the department of agriculture.

Dr. Kidd, speaking to the Consumers Association of Canada in Nanaimo this week, said that only eight out of 96 abattoirs in the province are licensed under the Brands Act which governs dealers. It should be compulsory to have a municipal bylaw governing meat inspection, and a meat inspection area governed by the Provincial Meat Inspection Act, said Dr. Kidd.

The veterinarian pointed out that although there has been an increase in the number of meat inspectors in this province since the meat scandal in Ontario in 1961, Greater Victoria is still the only inspection area on Vancouver Island.

It will be preceded at 10:30 p.m. by Easter Vigil, greatest and most solemn celebration of the church year.

"The Easter Vigil is a long service celebrated by the early Christians," said Rev. William Hill. "It contains a great deal of symbolism—the lighting of the new fire and the singing of exultet, among others."

Bomb Threat
Stressed

Residents with such objects in their homes or finding such objects are asked to turn them over to the RCAF or RCMP.

Port Renfrew

Thieves Endanger
Log Road Access

By ALEC MERRIMAN
Colonist Outdoors Editor

With a solution to the controversial logging road access problem in sight within the next two or three weeks thieves along the Port Renfrew road threw a curved foul ball last weekend.

They stole three power saws, a radio outfit, four six-volt batteries, two sets of climbing irons and rigging, property of B.C. Forest Products, and the personally-owned tools of the operator of a log loading machine.

Theft occurred at logging operations near Bear Creek, alongside the road to Port Renfrew, to which there is full public access during non-logging hours.

B.C. Forest Products has been among the most benevolent companies in granting public access and has even built public camping sites along its logging roads in the Port Renfrew and Cowichan Lake areas.

WORK MESSED

"You can see that we do have our problems sometimes," BCFP Vancouver Island manager Harry Hobson told The Daily Colonist last night. The logging crew missed a day's work while new equipment was brought in. The radio took two days to replace and if there had been a logging accident loss of the radio could have been serious, Mr. Hobson said.

He didn't know whether thefts were the action of loggers or recreationists and had no plans for recriminations against road users.

RCMP are investigating. Mr. Hobson said there has been very little vandalism or thefts along the logging road. Last fall some fittings for an aluminum pipe fire break were stolen.

ACTS AMENDED

On Friday of last week the provincial cabinet proclaimed a bill which would amend the Commercial Transport Act, the Motor Fuel Use Act and the Forestry Act in a manner to make it more attractive for logging companies to open their roads for public access.

WITHIN MONTH

Elk River Timber Co. plans to open its controversial road to Gold River on the west coast of Vancouver Island for off-hours travel, just as soon as it opens put three or four points in the new amendments, probably in two or three weeks.

But, if there are any more thefts or vandalism along logging company roads, the new benevolent outlook of the logging companies is not likely to be maintained.

Humpback Whale
Escapes Killers

Vancouver Island Long Beach residents Peggy Whittington and Joe Gregory watched a school of killer whales attack a humpback whale and drive it into the Long Beach surf breakers on Wednesday.

"We watched the battle for three hours," Mr. Gregory said. "Two or three of the killer whales attacked the bigger one—I think it was a humpback—and drove it into the surf. The humpback jumped right out of the water several times in its attempt to get away from the killers."

The humpback eventually escaped to deeper water, "but I bet it lost a lot of blubber first," said Mr. Gregory.

There were half a dozen more killer whales about a mile out past the surf line and Mr. Gregory and Mrs. Whittington watched them through binoculars.

Car Knocks Woman
Into Store Window

PORT ALBERNI — A woman pedestrian suffered minor injuries when she was knocked through a store window Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. H. W. Archer, Alberni, received cuts on her legs and suffered shock when a car struck her as she walked on the north sidewalk on Argyle Street in the 300 block, pushing her through a window of Millers Paint and Home Furnishings store. The large window was shattered.

According to RCMP the owner of the 1953 car involved, William Carver, Port Alberni, had parked the vehicle, leaving a child about four years of age in the car as he went into the store.

Police are investigating the incident. Mrs. Archer was taken to West Coast General Hospital by Alberni Valley ambulance.

The anchor of the Oscar was hooked by the towline of the tug Emerald Strait.

Development Project

Topaz Park Given Support

Prospect of developing Topaz Park in preference to Royal Athletic Park for major sports events received considerable support from city council yesterday.

Reserve Fund May Help
Keep Mill Rate Level

Oak Bay council will meet in camera Tuesday night in an attempt to chop $157,500—4½ mills—from its budget in an attempt to equal last year's tax rate of 40½ mills.

"There is a possibility that we can use some of our public works reserve fund to keep the mill rate down without sacrificing essential works," Reeve George Murdoch said last night.

TIGHT BUDGET

"We have $104,000 in the fund and we might be able to use half of that. The budget was tightly made up by all departments in the first place and there is little we can easily chop."

Oak Bay this year is facing essential works which can no longer be delayed in the name of "chopping the budget to last year's level," Reeve Murdoch said.

"For instance, surface drain outfalls at Willows Beach have to be extended into very deep water. It was put off in 1961 and again in 1962 and we have to get it done."

"That sort of thing is the result of cutting back each year to keep the mill rate down. Now costs of materials and everything are so much higher."

"This business of chopping taxes like that is a false economy."

CUT TAXES LAST YEAR

Oak Bay last year was the only municipality in Greater Victoria to reduce its taxes—by half a mill. Tuesday night's meeting will be the first of at least three similar budget meetings.

"We are hoping we can keep it down to last year's level but I won't guarantee it. We will do our best."

Ald. Austin Curtis branched the subject when he expressed surprise that the parks committee should recommend adoption of a $331,000 redevelopment program for Royal Athletic Park as a joint centennial project in 1967.

"As long as I've been on council there has been general agreement that Topaz Park should be developed as an enclosed park in preference to Royal Athletic Park," he said.

One of the difficulties connected with sports events in Victoria, Ald. Curtis said, is that summer evenings are often "pretty chilly."

He said this is probably a major reason why the city has lost its professional baseball team.

TOPAZ WARMER

"All tests carried out to date have shown Topaz Park, because of its sheltered location, is several degrees warmer in the evening than Royal Athletic Park," he said. "This could prove a great boost to attendance at night events."

Parks chairman Ald. Millard Mooney told council that plans for development of Topaz Park haven't been abandoned.

ENCLOSED PARK

"If it wants, council can request development of another enclosed park at Topaz," he said. "But we should leave Royal Athletic Park as it is even if we decide to put expensive new lighting and facilities at Topaz."

Ald. Mooney said his committee recommended the Royal Athletic Park development because it appeared likely to enlist the support of surrounding municipalities.

ON BORDER

"Surely Topaz Park would get even stronger support from Saanich," Mayor R. B. Wilson said. "It's practically on the border." The mayor added that the Royal Athletic Park scheme should only receive consideration as one of a number of suggested centennial projects.

Ald. J. L. W. McLean suggested that alternative proposals for development of both parks should be placed before council for its consideration as soon as possible. Council agreed this was the best course to follow.

Clerks Union Ends Strike

PORT ALBERNI — Lack of money has forced the Retail, Food and Drug Clerks Union to give up a 22-month picket line outside two Port Alberni five-and-dime stores.

"Rather than accept something that will not protect the security of our members, we would prefer not to have an agreement with these companies at all," business agent John Nicol said in Victoria last night, shortly after he returned from Port Alberni.

WITHDRAWAL CARDS

"We will give the people withdrawal cards."

"The strike is finished. The picketing of F. W. Woolworth's and the Zellers Limited store in Port Alberni and picketing of a Zellers store in Whalley, near Vancouver, cost the union some $20,000."

Picketing began over three issues—a minimum wage of $1 an hour, compared with the 65 cents then being paid; reduction of the work week from 44 hours to 40 hours, and union security for members. Since the picketing started provincial legislation has been changed to make the minimum wage $1 an hour and the maximum hours of work 40.

"These people will be now faced with the problem of finding employment," Mr. Nicol said. "They have been receiving strike benefits while they were picketing."
